cites coercion by Gov. Patrick

WOBURN - Pamela Lombardini, a former member of the Massachusetts Parole Board, has filed suit against the state in her termination from the state's Parole Board.

Back in January, 2011, Lombardini says she was coerced into resigning after pressure from Governor Deval Patrick and aide William "Mo" Cowan.

The resignation came in the aftermath of the death of Woburn Police Officer and Wilmington resident Jack Maguire, who was killed by Dominic Cinelli of Woburn, on December 26, 2010 in an aborted attempt to rob Kohl's jewelry department in East Woburn. Cinelli had been released by the Parole Board.

The Boston Herald reported that Cowan said armed state troopers threatened and intimidated her into resigning in the aftermath of the Officer Maguire shooting.

The Parole Board at the time in 2010 into 2011 was at the center of attention for allowing Cinelli to be released.

Cowan, who later was named by Patrick to Sen. John Kerry's U.S. Senate seat, was then his chief of Taxware, LLC, a division of Vista Equity Partners, relocated their headquarters from Salem, New Hampshire to Wilmington, Massachusetts earlier this week. Monday, July 22, the enterprise software company joined AGFA Graphics, Verizon Wireless, and ITT Technical Institute in the Ballardvale Office Park, located at 200 Ballardvale Street.

According to Jones Lang LaSalle, the commercial real estate company that handled negotiations for the move, "Ballardvale Office Park is a corporate campus that consists of four buildings totaling 550,000 square feet. Recent renovations include: new facades with dramatic glass lines, new lobbies, state-of-the-art HVAC systems, a full service cafeteria, free Wi-Fi, and a fitness center with lockers." In addition, retail amenities are proposed for the fall of 2014.

CEO Andy Hovancik said he's very excited to join the Ballardvale Office Park. "The strategic location and business-friendly environment of Wilmington will create the foundation for our company to realize its full potential in the coming years," he wrote in a press release to the Crier.

Taxware hopes their move to Wilmington positively impacts housing and educational resources in the surrounding areas. The company recently hired 200 new employees and is in full

Wilmington man

Second suspect apprehended

TEWKSBURY - On July 17, 2013, the Tewksbury Police Department arrested the second suspect wanted in connection with the armed robbery that occurred at the Shell Gas Station on July 15th. Patrick McNally, 51, of 418 Main St., Wilmington was arrested and charged with armed robbery, armed assault to rob and conspiracy.

With the assistance from the Boston Police Department (C-11), the Tewksbury Police were able to apprehend McNally at 350 Adams Street in Dorchester.

In addition to the Tewksbury robbery, McNally is also the suspected driver for Frank Pendergast in robberies in Woburn, Billerica, and Nashua.

On Monday July 15th, at approximately 12:30 am, Tewksbury Police responded to a report of an armed robbery which had just occurred at the Shell gas station located at 1975 Main Street. Officers arrived on scene within minutes and spoke with the clerk and a witness at the store. The clerk indicated that a heavy set white male, approximately 5'09" to 6" and 300 pounds, had entered the store and approached the clerk armed with a knife demanding money from the cash register. The suspect told the clerk that he would stab him. The suspect then reached into the register and took approximately $180.00 and then fled the store on foot.

Officers and Detectives were able to view video surveillance at the Shell station and learned that the suspect had large sunglasses, a long sleeved black shirt, colored pants, and white sneakers. In addition, the suspect appeared to have a black tee shirt wrapped around his head in a "do-rag" fashion. Officers and Detectives then searched the area around the station with the assis-

Orion Heat Shield developed at Textron

By Jon Bishop

WILMINGTON - The television show and movie franchise Star Trek famously declares space to be the final frontier.

It's true. And it still is— which is why NASA has established the Orion program.

"It's the next big manned program for NASA," said Mark Geyer, the program manager. It contains a state-of-the-art computer and escape system. It will be used to explore the Moon, asteroids, and the Red Planet.

"The rocket has the capability to launch pieces to Mars," he said. NASA is expected to hold a flight in September of next year.

But all of that won't matter if the craft isn't protected from the elements. Orion's heat shield can stand temperatures up to 4,900 degrees Fahrenheit.

And it was developed at Textron - in Wilmington. The heat shield itself was built by Lockheed Martin.

Avcoat, which the company created, "provides critical thermal protection for the crew module," according to a handout. It is made of resins and fillers, and it is "installed into a honeycomb core."

This isn't the first time NASA has used the material, though. Avcoat—and Textron—played a part in the Apollo missions.

"This is the first real heat shield we've built in 50 years," said Geyer. "It's great that we're back and using their expertise."

He said that "people right from this area" applied their craftsmanship to keep astronauts safe.

"These guys did a great job," he said. Jeff Picard, the Vice President of Program Execution, agreed. "The employees are really proud to be part of space," he said. "It gives the employees a lot of value to their work." He said that every employee understands the importance of the mission.

"We're proud," he said.

He also was pleased that NASA again sought Textron's services. "They've come to

Walking all over MS

Team "Sweaty Already"

At first, Tara Hardimon and her siblings found it odd when their mother, Susan Hardimon, lost her sense of smell and could not recognize the color red. Tara, her twin sister and older brother - just out of high school at the time - did not understand the cause of these idiosyncrasies until they received news that their mother had Optic Neuritis, a manifestation of Multiple Sclerosis (MS.)

Optic neuritis, an inflammation of the nerve carrying visual information from the eye to the brain, affects approximately 66% of people with MS, and is often one of the first symptoms of the disease, according to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. MS has become widely associated with celebrities affected by the disease such as Teri Garr, Richard Pryor, and Annette Bening.

Although various studies suggest a genetic risk for MS, Hardimon says it does not exist in her family. "None of our other relatives have it. They (researchers) still haven't figured out why Shelley Kresser (Hardimon), Erik Kresser, Tara Tonello (Hardimon), and Brian Tonello have formed team "Sweaty Already" to raise awareness for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. In four years, the team has walked 200 miles and logged 300,000 steps to support their mother, Susan Hardimon, and others who battle the disease. Saturday, August 10th, they will host a corn hole tournament at the Knights of Columbus in Wilmington, MA to raise money for the MS Challenge Walk in Cape Cod.

But Textron, of course, doesn't only help send people into space. It is one of the leading defense contractors. Picard said that they have worked with the Air Force, SOCOM, and others. They create precision weapons that reflect the type of conflict in which they will be used.

One of their primary partners is the Department of Defense. Another is, of course, the Town of Wilmington. "Wilmington enjoys having us," he said.

The feeling is mutual. Texton, which has been in town since 1958, has no desire to leave. "We love this location," he said. "It's a good partnership."

some get it and some do not."

For the past 10 years, Susan Hardimon has been going to Brigham and Women's hospital for this autoimmune disease which damages the nerves of the brain and spinal cord. MS is named for the accumulation of sclerosis, or scar tissue, which halts communication in the central nervous system. Symptoms vary in patients and can range from fatigue to coordination problems. Vertigo, cognitive functions, numbness, and breathing problems can also occur as the disease progresses.

"One thing my mom loved to do was dance—that is something she really misses," Hardimon said. "Both my sister and I got married in the past year. She would have given anything to dance at our weddings."

Symptoms have worsened over the last decade, creating various struggles for her mother, Hardimon said. "Ordinary tasks like tying her shoe or standing at the sink to brush her teeth. Her legs are achy all the time because she doesn't have much control over her muscles."

Last year, Susan had to stop working. Cognition refers to a range of high-level brain functions, including the ability to learn and remember information: organize, plan, and problem-solve; focus, maintain, and shift attention as necessary; understand and use language; accurately perceive the environment, and perform calculations. Cognitive changes are common in people with MS—approximately 50% of people with MS will develop problems with cognition.

Learn more about Cognitive Dysfunction Many people with MS experience some degree of tremor, or uncontrollable shaking. It can occur in various parts of the body.

Learn more about Tremor "Since our mother was diagnosed, she has been struggling with the unpredictability of the disease. In 2012, she was forced to stop working for the town she loves, the town she grew up in along with her brother and two sisters, the town that is home to many childhood friends."

Susan worked in the physical education and athletics department at the Wilmington High School and also as a transportation and facilities coordinator.

With the support of her brother Mike and his wife Deb, Hardimon planned a fundraiser to spread awareness of MS by joining the MS Challenge Walk four years ago. "This is all about my mom and it's a family effort," Hardimon said. "We do this to give back to her for all she has taught us, all she has done for us, and continues to do!"

To date, Hardimon has walked more than 200 miles, along with her twin sister Shelley and their husbands Brian Tonello and Erik Kresser. This summer, their team "Sweaty Already" will walk 50 miles for the cause. Hardimon says it will be far more challenging than people realize: "The walk is over the course of three days. We walk from 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. the first day, 8 a.m. - 3 p.m. the second day, and then 8 a.m. - 12 noon on the third day. In other words 20 miles, 20 miles, and 10 miles -50 miles total. While you're at work the whole day, we're walking that entire time."

The three-day walk will test the participants' courage and strength. "It's also a bonding time for the community," Hardimon said. "A three-day walk helps you build a relationship with others going through the same thing. We stand together and finish out the three days. We'll definitely get cramps and our bodies will ache, but it's nothing compared to the struggles people with MS face every single day. We will power through it in honor of those with the disease."

The MS Challenge Walk takes place on the Cape this year, September 6th - 8th. In order to raise funds for the walk, Hardimon will host a corn hole (bean bag toss) tournament Saturday, August 10th at the Knights of Columbus in Wilmington. The event begins at 1 p.m. and includes food, music, and raffles. Two-player team donations are $50.00. "We hope to raise $4,000 on that day alone," Hardimon said. If she raises up to $6,000, her four-year total will equal $25,000.

"This is a frustrating disease that robs people of their independence. But our mother is determined to battle this disease every single day," Hardimon said. "She is our driving force to raise as much as we can for Multiple Sclerosis. She truly is an inspiration - we participate in this walk for her—we walk for those who can't."

To reserve a spot or donate raffle items by August 3rd, contact tara.tonello@yahoo.com or visit: main.nationalmssociety.org/goto/sweatyalready. Checks made payable to the National MS Society can be mailed to 12 Birchwood Road, Wilmington MA 01887.

Proceeds from the event go towards research for the prevention of MS, support programs, and awareness campaigns.

Dancing the night away... at Silver lake

By LARZ F. NEILSON

The Mildred Rogers School Mothers Club had a dance scheduled for June 1, 1953, but they had to cancel it.

Two days earlier, on May 29, a town crew demolished the Silver Crest dance floor at Silver Lake, on orders from Town Manager Dean Cushing. There was no hearing, no consultation, no notice.

The Wilmington Crusader reported that Cushing said the dance floor was destroyed because of numerous complaints of accidents with youngsters on bicycles.

The dance floor was an area of about 30 by 50 feet next to the town beach at Silver Lake. It had been built in the early 1930s by the Silver Lake Men's Club in the area once occupied by the Union Ice Company.

For several years, dance events were held there. There was a bandstand, a ticket booth, and other enclosed area. During evening events, the area would be lit with colored lights. By 1940, the dance events had ended, and many of the wooden structures had been removed. What remained was an elevated concrete slab with a high fence.

In the spring of 1953, the town made considerable improvements to the town beach. It was in conjunction with this work that the manager ordered the dance floor removed.

The residents of the lake area, though, did not consider that to be an improvement. Both the Silver Lake Betterment Association (SLBA) and the Mildred H. Rogers Mothers' Club protested the removal. The Crusader had an editorial commenting on the town manager's actions. The town had adopted the town manager plan in 1950, and proponents argued that under the plan, things can be done in a hurry.

Referring to the destruction, Capt. Larz Neilson wrote, "... we think that a lesson can be drawn that it doesn't always pay to get things done in a hurry."

The next selectmen's meeting was a hot one. Chairman Charles Black opened it by reading a letter from the SLBA, protesting the destruction of the dance floor.

The town manager responded saying that the floor had been destroyed for reasons of safety. The lifeguard could not watch swimmers while having to care for someone who might be injured playing handball. He said they had found the beach to be too small, and that more space was needed. "If anything is wrong, it is my fault," he said, adding, with a grin, "and if there is any credit, it is mine too!"

(Dean Cushing, Wilmington's first town manager, was no relation to local Cushing families.)

Gerry O'Reilly's book, Collected Memories of Silver Lake has some great descriptions of the Silver Crest.

"I did not know the name, but I knew the place," wrote Joe Gilligan, who grew up on Burnap Street, a stone's throw from the Silver Crest. "When I first became aware of the open-air dance hall, it was toward the end of its reign as an attraction, but I do recall its being brightly lit while it operated at night. It was fenced all around, and at the entrance there was a ticket booth, and at the far end, there were a few other enclosed spaces. The main feature was a concrete dance floor, which remained just about intact until the time of the construction of the town beach. Floor parts around the dance floor were of wood. The wood flooring and other wood remains gradually disappeared, primarily in the winter months when ice skaters were prone to make bonfires on the frozen lake. What better, more convenient source of firewood was there than all that wood."

"When all that remained of the dance hall was the concrete platform, it was still an attraction, but for different reasons. The far end, away from Danger Beach, was an ideal sunbathing mecca. The near end was divided into a near-perfect hand tennis court. This, in my time, was the constant summer activity from morning to late afternoon. Always in attendance were Art Lynch and his son Willie, Bob Baker, Boo Shepard, Turk and Hank Stewart, Billy Shepard and Tex Johnston. . . . These hand tennis matches were very serious business, and the general rule was to wait your turn to play the winner of the previous match. Supposedly, no one kept score of matches won, but the reality was everyone kept score."

"When the Silver Crest open-air dance hall was in full swing, they had an event similar to an amateur night, when local talent or alleged talent could perform. One such amateur performer was Molly Lynch. She was a singer, and had her own accompanist, John Quinlan. To the amazement of all of us who knew the flamboyant Molly, she became a Catholic nun."

Mr. Gilligan is well-known to those who went through the Wilmington schools in the second half of the 20th Century. He was a science teacher, guidance counselor and baseball coach. He's still with us, doing well.

Bob Goss also wrote some about the Silver Crest. His family moved to Cottage Street in 1935.

"I do remember the place and seeing the colored lights brightly lit when the dance hall operated at night. As a youngster I watched all the activities and could hear the music from Baby Beach. It wasn't long after I became aware of the attraction that the open-air dance hall closed. My recollection is that I was in the second grade when the bandstand and the enclosed areas were torn down. The dance floor had a unique feature — it was concrete! This concrete remained intact until the expansion of the town beach."

"... almost at the center of today's town beach was a concrete slab left over from the outdoor dancing establishment," wrote Willie Whalen. "This slab was probably 20 feet wide and 40-50 feet long, with frost cuts every 10-12 feet, giving us a perfect handball court. Using a tennis ball and tennis rules but no net, only the center frost line, we would play for hours each day. This being summertime, no kid wore shoes, and after a couple of weeks of torture, our feet grew accustomed to the hot concrete. The bottoms hardened and by July we could extinguish a cigarette by stepping on it. Myself, Buddy Pilcher, Charlie White and many others had some great rivalries during our summers on that beach court."

Via e-mail, comments from Bill Fay: Yes, I certainly remember the dance floor. I spent a lot of time on that surface, but never danced a step. Larry and George Cushing set up the recreational program at the Town Beach in the early 50's. (George, on the Fire Department, worked part time for Larry.) My understanding was the "dance floor" was originally the floor of one of the ice houses around the lake. Anyway, I whiled away those summers playing endless rounds of handball and shuffleboard that had been painted on the surface. Eddie Forrest was the life guard and he was an imposing figure who kept law and order at all times. The Ryan family owned the house immediately west of the beach. Phyllis Ryan's mom was a peach and we would head over there for a cold drink after the marathon handball tournaments. George Cushing would set up a screen and projector and we'd get a vintage western free on Friday and Saturday nights on that same surface, with folding chairs and blankets, of course.

Foss and Moriarty make the mark at Mass Maritime Massachusetts Maritime Academy has recently named local student Jonathan Foss of Wilmington to the Dean's List during the Spring 2013 semester.

Cadet Foss maintained a grade-point-average of between 3.3 and 3.5 during the last semester to achieve this high academic honor.

Also, Cadet John Moriarty of Wilmington was named to the President's List during the Spring 2013 semester.

The President's List is the highest academic achievement that a cadet can earn at the Academy. To be named to the list, a cadet must maintain a grade-point average of over 3.5 during the semester.

tance of the Tewksbury Police K-9 Unit. A short distance from the station the K-9 Unit located a black shirt on the ground. This shirt matched the description of the shirt the suspect was wearing around his head during the robbery.

Through further investigation, Detectives were able to determine that the suspect matched the description of a suspect wanted in connection with similar incidents in the surrounding communities, including a similar robbery in the Town of Billerica on July 14th and a bank robbery in Woburn on July 15th. Tewksbury Detectives were successful in identifying Frank Pendergast, 45, of 4 Elderberry Rd., Apt # 103, Reading, Ma as the individual who perpetrated the Shell station armed robbery and a warrant for his arrest was sought and issued. Mr. Pendergast is charged with Armed Robbery (c265/s17) and Armed Assault with Intent to Rob (c 265/s18).

On July 16, 2013, at approximately 3 pm, Mr. Pendergast was tracked to 3 Pinecrest Road in North Reading where he was taken into custody by Tewksbury Police, North Reading Police, and members of the FBI Bank Robbery Task Force for the Tewksbury warrant and a Billerica warrant for armed robbery. He surrendered to police when he realized the home was surrounded and the Tewksbury Police K-9 Unit was in route. Mr. Pendergast is also wanted in connection with a robbery that occurred in Nashua, NH. Mr. Pendergast is currently being medically evaluated and is expected to be arraigned in Lowell District Court sometime tomorrow.

HOW ARE WORKERS BEING CLASSIFIED?

An employee pays only half of his Social Security and Medicare taxes; he may be entitled to benefits and vacation. The employer may be liable for other taxes, for disability and/or unemployment insurance. An independent contractor pays his or her own taxes, gets no paid vacation and no benefits.

Is it any wonder that more and more employers are classifying their workers as independent contractors? The Labor Department is looking closely at the situation, now that a voluntary reclassification settlement program has just expired. Misclassification is said to cost federal and state governments billions of dollars.

Generally, an independent contractor sets his own schedule, is charged with accomplishing certain projects, and may be paid by the task or the hour. At the end of the year, the employer must provide the contractor with a Form 1099. Is your company in compliance? Let us help you with any tax issues. We've got the know-how you need at

Still time to host a New York City child in Massachusetts through the Fresh Air Fund

The Fresh Air Fund needs host families in Massachusetts RIGHT NOW to make the dreams of New York City children become a reality.

Since 1877, more than 1.7 million New York City children from low-income communities have benefitted from free summer experiences in the country. Last year, over 4,000 boys and girls visited the homes of volunteer host families in rural, suburban and small town communities across 13 states from Virginia to Maine and Canada.

Volunteer host families share their summers for up to two weeks with New York City children, ages six to 18, who leave behind the city streets to enjoy the simple pleasures of life in the country. There is still time this summer to volunteer to host a child.

There are thousands of moments that inner-city children remember about their Fresh Air Fund summers...grass on their bare feet...sitting around a campfire with new friends...swimming in a lake for the first time...the delicious aroma of a barbecue...the quiet, open space and twinkling stars. For 137 years, The Fresh Air Fund has been giving city children this priceless gift...happy summer memories filled with life-changing moments...And doesn't every child deserve that?

A volunteer host Mom explains, "Our Fresh Air daughter is a dream. She's part of our summers, and when we make our plans, we always include her." Her Fresh Air child says, "Night at home is so bright, I never see stars. There are always cars honking, and I never get any peace and quiet." And it's that simple to offer a New York City child a summer of fun.

Interviews may be arranged with volunteer host families and Fresh Air children in 13 states and Canada and Fresh Air Fund Executive Director Jenny Morgenthau in New York City.

Selfie Doubt

BY DAN MARGARITA

I don't want to see Geraldo Rivera naked. I don't want to see Geraldo Rivera nearly naked. Come to think of it, I don't want to see Geraldo Rivera in any capacity.

Yet, for reasons that only Geraldo himself can explain, the world was recently "treated" to a photo of a semi-nude Rivera that was plastered all over social media. Mr. Rivera seems to have had second thoughts, taking the photo down from his Twitter account but the damage (to his reputation and our retinas) was done.

Sure, he looks pretty damn good for 70. Heck, he looks better at 70 than I do at mumble, mumble, mumble. Still, for someone who is a nationally known journalist, this seems to have been a foolish thing to do. The fact that he removed the photo indicates that even he realized this.

This is the age we live in, however. One couldn't imagine news broadcasting giant Walter Cronkite tweeting, "I'm Walter Cronkite and this is my junk." Well, I certainly don't want to.

Maybe I'm getting old. I just don't understand the nude self-photo, or "selfie" as it is known. Congressman Anthony Weiner had to resign from congress when it became known that he had tweeted his own "selfie," scantily clad (and I'll leave it at that).

He initially lied and claimed to have had his Twitter account hacked, but inevitably the truth came out (and fortunately nothing more than the truth) that he was the wearer of said Jockey shorts.

What on earth made him think that for a sitting member of congress that this was a good idea? I suppose some might say that the existence of the technology makes it possible for those with such exhibitionist's tendencies to explore those opportunities. Nonsense, I say. Photography has existed for some 150 years or more and yet we never saw Abraham Lincoln distributing daguerreotypes of the original Lincoln Log.

His scandal apparently hasn't dampened Weiner's political ambitions as he is running for mayor of New York City. I guess this shouldn't surprise us. If he had the gall to take these photos of himself, he has the gall to run for mayor.

He is not the only disgraced politician to try to make a comeback. Eliot Spitzer, former New York governor and Attorney General, is running for New York City comptroller after having resigned from office in disgrace when he was revealed to have used the services of a prostitute.

At least Spitzer is running for a more obscure office. I have no idea what a comptroller does. Maybe Weiner should've also attempted his political resurrection by aiming lower on the political totem pole, like say head of Animal Control.

The advent of the cell phone and its recording technology has put all of us potentially in the public eye. Any unfortunate slip, trip or embarrassing moment now has the potential to go onto the Internet and make one famous, or infamous.

A few years ago I was taking the Green Line back from a Boston Marathon party when I spied a man, incredibly drunk, holding on to the hanging strap and barely staying ambulatory. Then I noticed a young man with his cell phone, across the car from the drunken man, recording the man's efforts to stay upright. I never saw anything online about this, but this could have gone viral and the man would have an unfortunate moment haunt him for some time.

All I can say is those of us of a certain age can be thankful that our "youthful indiscretions" were not in the presence of someone with quick access to a video recording device.

Now, let's get back to Geraldo Rivera. His tweet also stated that, "70 is the new 50." Never adept at math myself, I am puzzled by this phrase, which one hears on occasion. This is some form of arithmetic that I am unaware of.

I think it means that people at a certain age seem younger than people once did when they were that age. I know my dad seemed much older in his early 60's than New England Patriots coach Bill Belichick does at that same age.

If we're going to use that math, though, I guess you could say, "Dead is the new 110."

And to think, we had always thought that Geraldo's most embarrassing moment would be on live TV opening the empty vault of Al Capone.

WCTV to Celebrate 26th Anniversary with Fun, Events and Magic

by Dan Hall
Crier Correspondent

Wilmington Community Television, or WCTV for short, has been providing entertainment and airing important town meetings for twenty six years. The organization, which used to be based out of the Swain School but has since moved to a new location off Route 62 in North Wilmington, has allowed many local Wilmington residents to taste stardom, featuring shows on fitness, cooking, variety shows and many other creative endeavors by Wilmington residents. This organization will be celebrating their twenty sixth year of existence with an anniversary party on August 25th, from 1-4 PM, at their 10 Waltham Street location.

This will be an outdoor event, and will feature many entertainers and local celebrities. Limo rides, studio tours, music and a photo booth will be available to the public all day, along with a schedule of planned events and entertainment.

At 1:30 PM, the Robinson Family Band will perform, followed by the headliner of the event, local magician Matias Letelier. Letelier, who is known for his powers of illusion and deception, will be performing from 2:00-2:30, followed by the Wilmington Dance Academy, who will be performing a specially crafted dance specific for this occasion.

Food vendors will be present at this event as well, and the Boston Metro-Train Railers will also be available and welcoming patrons and visitors. Unfortunately, there is no rain date scheduled for this event, but the planners guarantee an excellent time, weather permitting, for locals who want to come out and support and celebrate twenty six years of WCTV.

Anyone who wants more information should call WCTV at 978-657-4066 or email their coordinator for this event, Sandra Curtin, at scurtin@WCTV.org.

Let's Talk About Hearing

by Lolly Wigall

Blue tooth seems like Magic to me

What is Bluetooth? To me it seems like magic. Bluetooth sends information from one computer chip to another computer chip without wires. This is what WIFI uses to connect a computer to a modem without wires. Bluetooth connects my cell phone to my car's audio system so I can talk hands free.

According to Wikipedia Bluetooth was developed in 1994 by Jim Kardach. The name is the anglicized name of Scandinavian King Harald Bluetooth who united Denmark and parts of Norway in the 10th century. Supposedly Mr. Kardach was influenced by a book entitled "The Long Ships" that he was reading at the time of the Bluetooth invention. He created the logo from a combination of King Harald's initials and runes.

Bluetooth has only been available in hearing aids in recent years. Digital hearing aids were introduced in 1995 by Widex. Since 1995 hearing aids that process sound digitally are the standard. In fact, analog hearing aids are not generally available today.

With the advent of digital hearing aids and computer chips, Bluetooth compatibility became an option. Part of the engineering dilemma was to make the computer chips and the Bluetooth antenna small enough to fit into the hearing aid casings.

Now, hearing aid companies offer remote controls that pair with the hearing aids and cell phones. Now, hearing aid wearers can hear the phone conversation from their cell phones, and some Bluetooth landline phones through their hearing aids. The Bluetooth technology sends the conversation to both hearing aids simultaneously so it is easier for the hard of hearing individual to hear the conversation.

Technology is moving ahead quickly. I like to think that the sky is the limit. But, for hearing aids the sky is the limit as long as it is small and compact. Hearing aid wearers like them to be discreet and function extremely well. Fortunately, engineers are making computer chips smaller and more compatible with other devices.

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:
I hope everyone is enjoying the summer. I know all my children are. They have been to the beach and the mountains. Out riding their bikes, scooters, and roller skating. Hanging out with their friends and enjoying all the games and adventures we played and had as children, minus the computer and video games. What is my point you may be asking? Well I know as a child I was always getting scrapes, cuts, and the occasional stitch or two, my mother says we were on a first name basis with everyone at the emergency room. My point is accidents and injuries do not take a break for the summer. Illness and disease does not wait for the summer fun to end before affecting a child. The need for blood does not decrease over the summer it actually runs at a critical low because donors take vacations.

That is why we hold our Summer Blood Drive for Boston's Children's Hospital and the Jimmy Fund Clinic on Wednesday, August 7 and Thursday, August 8 from 1:00 PM to 7:30 PM at the West Side Social Club, 4 Harrington Court, Wakefield. We are being assisted with our summer's drive by Erin Percy and Hanna Heyliger as they are performing their Community Service requirements to graduate from their high school by hosting the drive. Please consider making an appointment to donate a pint of your life giving blood to Boston's Children's Hospital. Many life saving surgeries and treatments cannot start without whole blood donors.

My wife, Erica, and I never expected any of our children to need a blood transfusion, nor did we realize how many our daughter, Ashley, would need during her treatment for Leukemia, but we are so very grateful that donors like you were there during Ashley's time of need. I pray that no parent will ever need to be as grateful as we were that blood supplies were available for Ashley. Unfortunately too many parents learn how important blood donors are every day and how fortunate they are that people like you are there to donate.

So please become one of our Silent Heroes and come down and donate a pint of blood to Boston's Children's Hospital at the West Side Social Club, 4 Harrington Court, Wakefield on either August 7 or 8 from 1:00 PM to 7:30 PM. Remember, many life saving surgeries and treatments cannot be started without you our blood donors! Walk-ins are welcome but appointments get time preference. Please click on the link below to make an appointment.

Thank you,
Erin Percy, Hanna Heyliger, and Mark Cashell, Ashley's Dad

Wilmington woman striding for strokes

Chioccarriello Accepted on Tedy's Team

By Sheryl Walsh
Crier Correspondent

Wilmington - Three years ago Jennifer Chioccarriello was in the hospital with uncontrollable high blood pressure. Now she's running on Tedy's Team to support the American Stroke Association. Chioccarriello will participate in the first-ever Tedy's Team Trifecta by running the Falmouth Road Race on August 11, 2013, the Rock n Roll Las Vegas Half Marathon on November 17, 2013 and the Boston Marathon on April 21, 2014. Chioccarriello's running enthusiasm began as a result of getting healthy again.

Her blood pressure problem was associated with pregnancy. "So there I was, two days after delivering my beautiful baby boy, nearly stroking due to uncontrollably high blood pressure," she explains. During her pregnancy, she suffered from chronic edema, commonly known as fluid retention. Then she had an emergency cesarean due to a dangerously high spike in her blood pressure. Ten days later Chioccarriello was still in the hospital.

Doctors had no idea what caused her problem or why the medication was not controlling it. Months of bed rest, more medication, hospital visits, and extensive research led her to Mass

General Hospital cardiologist Dr Randall Zusman and a minimum sodium diet that has allowed her to significantly reduce her medications and enjoy life again. It also led to running, her new passion.

Chioccarriello was not a runner before this. It came as part of the healing process. Under her doctor's care, she began to introduce activity back into her life. She started walking on a treadmill wearing a heart rate monitor. Her husband, Carl Chioccarriello, was right by her side. She graduated to walking on the sidewalk, at first still accompanied by her husband. Then she asked her doctor, "What now?"

He explained that biking, swimming, and running would be good for her heart and good for her blood pressure. So Chioccarriello picked running and fell in love with it. "It's mentally and physically challenging, giving me exactly what I need," she says.

Chioccarriello ran her first race in April 2013, Wilmington's 5K honoring Kim Forte. She then ran another 5K and a 10K, and she committed to two more races. But bigger than that will be her trifecta with Tedy's Team. "I filled out the application, told them my story, and they picked me," she explains. So far there are ten people on the team, but Chioccarriello reports they will pick six or seven more.

Tedy's Team was established in 2005 to support the American Stroke Association by raising awareness and funding for stroke research. Affiliated with retired NE Patriot's player Tedy Bruschi, Tedy's Team has raised over $2.5 Million for stroke research, education, and awareness. Megan Dwinnell is Peter Pan in Andover's Summer Theater Ensemble

On Friday, August 2nd - Sunday, August 4th the majestic J. Everett Collins Center at Andover High School will be filled with flight, music and that timeless message of staying young! In celebration of their 15th summer of delivering musical theatre to the Merrimack Valley, Andover's Summer Theater Ensemble (STE) is bringing the beloved classic Peter Pan back to the stage. This season's production of Peter Pan stars Tewksbury's own Megan Dwinnell as Peter Pan.

Under the guidance of the award winning Artistic Director Susan Choquette, a cast of some thirty-two seasoned young adults from Stoneham to North Reading to Haverhill are busy putting the finishing touches on what is sure to be a fantastic production complete with a full professional orchestra and a flying cast.

In reflecting on the theater company's rich history in the community Executive Director and Co-Producer Elly Seavey shared some insight as to how this year's show was chosen... "We are so grateful to the Merrimack Valley community for embracing our theatrical productions each and every summer. Given our big anniversary this year, my coproducer Rita Casper and I really wanted to thank our patrons with a hallmark production. There isn't a better show to fit that bill than the timeless classic, Peter Pan. Its message and its magic never grow old. The musical was warmly embraced when we produced the show back in 2006, so we're bringing it back to town to celebrate our 15th year!"

This year's production is sure to delight both young and old with a number of the cast members actually flying above the audience. The Tony Award Winning special effects company Flying by Foy (straight from Las Vegas) will be overseeing that aspect of the show. In addition, the production team consists of Thom Smoker serving as Musical Director, Maxie Holman as Choreographer, Scott Worthley as Technical Director and Karen Spinale overseeing wardrobe as Costume Director.

Andover's Summer Theater Ensemble is in its fifteenth season of providing comprehensive training in the performing arts for young people entering grades sixth through twelve. In the course of the program's four weeks, participants are immersed in high caliber training in the performing arts, theater production and costume design. Past productions have included Anything Goes, Damn Yankees, The Wiz, Grease, Hairspray, Legally Blonde, West Side Story, Oliver, Guys and Dolls and The Sound of Music. Advanced tickets are available now in Andover at Orange Leaf, Learning Express and the Department of Community Service Offices on Bartlet Street. In North Andover tickets may be purchased at Mad Maggies Ice Cream. In addition, a limited number of tickets will be sold at the door during the performances. For more information, please visit the Andover Community Service's website at: www.andoverdcs.com/youth/youth_summer/STE.

Where have the Recycling Police gone? Our neighbors have only put out a bin once in over a year. This after being notified about the mandatory policy. We thought that if this was not adhered to, regular trash would not be picked up and this is not the case. Has the policy changed?

the world famous Clydesdales at the Merrimack, New Hampshire Anheuser-Busch Brewery. A short drive up Route 3, the bottling facility and Clydesdale Hamlet is open to the public for free tours. The first Saturday of every month is photo day. You can have your picture taken with the horses, either with your camera, or for a small fee by their own photographer. You may even get lucky and meet Bud, the famous Dalmation that rides shotgun with the driver of the eight horse hitch.

Clydesdales are a Scottish breed of draught horse. Standing approximately six feet tall at the withers (shoulders), these majestic animals weigh over one ton a piece. They are mild-mannered and sport names like Pete, General, and King. The stables are home to over twenty horses, all part of the Northeast hitch team, one of three in the country. The other two teams reside in Fort Collins, Colorado and St. Louis, Missouri, each travelling thousands of miles each year while making appearances at sporting and fundraising events around the country. Three handlers live on site with the horses to be available 24/7 for their care. Merrimack is also the breeding and training facility for all of the horses in the Northeast program.

There is an optional factory tour available of the brewing facility. This behind-the-scenes tour lasts 45 minutes, and is free of charge. Visitors learn about the history of the Budweiser brand, the development of brewing in the United States, and about the logistics and sheer volume of raw material and handling required to produce mass quantities of beer every day in the facility. Merrimack is the smallest of the twelve AB/InBev bottling plants in the country, serving the Northeast region and producing 3.1 million gallons each year. Children will be interested in the large scale of the machinery, and parents will be amazed at the technology and process undertaken to produce America's best selling adult beverage. You may also be surprised at which brands AB now owns, including micro brews and Rolling Rock. Anheuser-Busch was purchased by Belgian/Brazilian InBev in 2008 and is now the largest brewery and beer company in the world.

At the conclusion of the tour, visitors are invited to sample a few of the brands that were discussed on the tour. Choices might include a new flavor of beer or a

Q. Dr. Bob, do I qualify for free diabetic shoes if I have poor circulation?

~ Mary, Stoneham

B. Ask your doctor whether your foot pressure would be distributed more effectively with a customized approach to shoes and insoles. It's important that your feet don't develop calluses -- because poor circulation puts you at risk for slow recovery from wounds.

Helpful hints for Girl Scout Campers

Summer is in full swing and camp is in session all across the Commonwealth. Campers will participate in all sorts of outdoor activities, ranging from archery to horseback riding, swimming in the lake, and cooking over a campfire. Safety is an important aspect of a good camp program, and Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts has 14 ACA-accredited camps throughout New England and more than 100 summers under our belt. Our camp counselors have provided a list of safety tips for those attending our camp or just hanging out this summer.

• Eat breakfast. Avoid headaches by making sure you eat something at the start of the day. Remember you're moving around and burning calories so a high protein breakfast will help keep you energized.

• Bring a reusable water bottle. Make sure to fill the bottle throughout the day. You should be drinking water often, especially if you're participating in rigorous activities.

• Pack or eat a well-balanced, healthy lunch. Add lots of healthy snacks, like fruits and veggies, so you can avoid getting too hungry between meals. These snacks are great sources of nutrients too!

• Get plenty of sleep. Be sure to get to bed early so you have the energy to participate in camp activities the next day. Feeling drowsy can also be dangerous when you're doing an activity.

• Apply and pack sunscreen. As we all know, sunburns are no fun. Remember to put some on in the morning and bring it with you so you can reapply throughout the day.

• Bring non-aerosol bug spray. This is a must. Bugs love camp grounds just as much as we do so keep them away by packing some bug spray.

• Dress in layers. Sometimes it can be 10 degrees cooler in the woods or the mornings may start out cool but then warm up. Wearing layers that you can take on and off will help you feel comfortable at any temperature.

• Grab a raincoat. Camp activities are planned in all kinds of weather (with safety always in mind, of course!)

• Wear sturdy shoes. You'll need these for hiking and playing in the woods. Socks are also a good idea to keep your ankles safe from poison ivy.

• Check for ticks. To make it easier for you to spot these pesky guys, wear light colored or bright clothes. Also, after each camp day in the woods, always check for ticks one last time when you get home.

• Never wander off by yourself; always tell an adult where you will be and take a buddy with you.

• Before starting a campfire rake around the fire circle and make sure it is free of debris or exposed roots and hazards as fire can travel underground.

• Tie your hair back or preferably wear a bandana.

• When selecting wood, gather a variety of kindling, tinder and fuel. Make sure it is dry, dead and preferably on the ground already. Take care to know the type of wood and never burn poison ivy or other toxins.

• Always have a full water bucket close by and depending on the climate and ground, also have a full bucket of sand to smother the fire.

• When extinguishing your fire, sprinkle the water or sand a little at a time. To avoid steam and sparks do not dump the whole bucket at once. Move the coals around with a poker or wet stick to make sure all coals are totally out. You should be able to hold your hand a few inches above the coals and not feel any heat. The fire should also be free of smoke and embers.

• Never leave your fire unattended, not even for a second! Maintain a safe number of fire tenders and rotate in when cooking s'mores.

If you haven't signed up for camp yet there is still time. And don't forget about family camp! To learn more, please visit www.hercamp.org.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE TOWN OF TEWKSBURY, MASSACHUSETTS ("TOWN") HAS ENTERED INTO A HOST COMMUNITY AGREEMENT WITH WESTERN MASS. GAMING VENTURES, LLC ("MASS GAMING"), A SUBSIDIARY OF PENN NATIONAL GAMING, INC., SETTING FORTH THE CONDITIONS FOR LOCATION OF A GAMING ESTABLISHMENT WITHIN THE TOWN. THE HOST COMMUNITY AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE TOWN AND MASS GAMING IS ATTACHED TO THIS NOTICE AND IS SUMMARIZED BELOW.

SUMMARY OF TERMS

Pursuant to the Host Community Agreement, Mass Gaming has agreed to:

(i) Annual payments after opening of $1 million in mitigation payments (which will increase by 2.5% annually beginning in year four of operations) and $120,000 contributions to fund Tewksbury's capital expenditures and other beneficial projects and initiatives. Combined with the estimated annual property taxes of approximately $3 million, the annual payments to the Town are expected to exceed $4 million per year.

(ii) Work to maximize opportunities for local residents and area businesses during the construction and operation phases of the facility, including employment, purchasing goods and services from local businesses, utilizing local contractors, and using significant local union labor through the creation of a roster of local residents who are members of various construction and other applicable unions. The project is expected to create approximately 1,000 direct and indirect construction related jobs and 500 permanent jobs upon opening.

(iii) Commissioning a Traffic Impact Study and Infrastructure Capacity Assessment and funding infrastructure improvements identified in each, including road, sewer and water improvements, among others.

(iv) Fully reimbursing the Town of Tewksbury for all incremental costs to determine the impacts of the project and the Special Town Meetings and elections, including consultants and temporary staff.

(v) Implementing a responsible gaming plan in Tewksbury, including active participation in the Massachusetts Partnership for Responsible Gambling, promoting responsible gaming in daily operations, and supporting public awareness of responsible gaming, among others.

(vi) Donating annually to non-profit entities that serve Tewksbury citizens. Penn National Gaming provided over $12.7 million in total contributions in 2012 to non-profit organizations in jurisdictions where it operates.

(vii) Reimbursing the Town of Tewksbury for expenses related to a town election in which the citizens will decide whether to host a slots only facility.

SUMMARY OF AGREEMENT

Section 1. The Town agrees to the proposed location of Mass Gaming's gaming establishment at 300 Ames Pond Drive, Tewksbury, Massachusetts for the construction of a proposed gaming establishment having no more than 1,250 machines. If there is a material change in the size of the gaming establishment following the second anniversary of its opening for business to the general public, or if Mass Gaming is permitted to install table games or additional machines, the Town and Mass Gaming will negotiate in good faith impact fees that correspond to tangible and incremental impacts on the Town of Tewksbury in direct relation to such gaming expansion at the Premises.

Section 2. The Town agrees to carry out the procedures to provide notice of the Agreement and to place the required ballot question for electorate approval of the gaming establishment on a public election ballot referendum. Mass Gaming is required to reimburse the Town for its expenses related to the election.

Section 3. Mass Gaming agrees to pay the Town's reasonable and direct costs of determining the impacts of the gaming establishment, negotiating this Agreement and any related agreements, and participating in proceedings and other activities related to the gaming establishment project.

Section 4. Mass Gaming agrees to pay the Town's standard permit and license fees for development, construction and utility plans, as well as the Town's actual, reasonable costs incurred in connection with the review and inspection of the permit and license applications for such activities. Mass Gaming's obligation extends to the costs of temporary staff and consultants needed by the Town to conduct such reviews and inspections.

Section 5. If Mass Gaming is awarded a final Category 2 gaming license, Mass Gaming will work in good faith with the Town to employ residents of the Town during the construction and operation of the proposed gaming establishment, and to purchase goods and services from local vendors provided that the cost and quality of those goods and services is competitive with competitors and the vendors satisfy any suitability requirements imposed by state law or the Massachusetts Gaming Commission. Mass Gaming will hold at least one event for Tewksbury residents at a venue to be approved by the Town, at which Mass Gaming will publicize its construction needs and explain to attendees the process by which they may seek to be hired in connection with construction of the project.

Section 6. Mass Gaming agrees to utilize significant union labor in the construction of the gaming establishment. The Section further outlines the procedures Mass Gaming will follow to enhance opportunities for local union chapters and local residents who are members of the various construction unions. Mass Gaming also agrees to supply periodic compliance reports to the Town.

Section 7. Mass Gaming agrees to provide the Town with copies of revenue reports required to be delivered to the Massachusetts Gaming Commission.

Section 8. If Mass Gaming is awarded a final Category 2 gaming license, within thirty (30) days after Mass Gaming's opening of the gaming establishment to the public, Mass Gaming will pay the Town an annual mitigation fee in the sum of $1,000,000. Beginning in year four of Mass Gaming's operations the amount of the Annual Mitigation Payment will be increased by 2.5% per annum; however, the Annual Mitigation Payment payable commencing in year 21 and each year thereafter shall not exceed an amount equal to one percent (1%) of gross gaming revenue of the previous fiscal year.

Section 9. Commencing in its first year of operations, Mass Gaming agrees to make an annual payment of $120,000 to fund the Town's capital expenditures and other beneficial projects and initiatives.

Section 10. Mass Gaming agrees to pay for or reimburse the Town for infrastructure improvements (such as roads, water and sewer) directly related to the construction and operation of the gaming establishment. Mass Gaming shall commission a traffic and infrastructure impact study to be conducted by a professional selected by Mass Gaming and approved by the Town, and an Infrastructure Capacity Assessment to determine if existing and expected future water and sewer system capacities will service the needs of Mass Gaming and the Town's reasonable build-out analysis for the targeted distribution/collection area(s).

Section 11. Mass Gaming plans to invest, provided it obtains an acceptable Category 2 gaming license to operate a gaming facility at the Premises, approximately Two Hundred Million Dollars ($200,000,000.00) in the development of the facilities at the Premises.

Section 12. Mass Gaming will work toward responsible gaming goals in Tewksbury by: (1) educating its employees and providing information to patrons about the odds of games and how to make responsible gaming decisions; (2) promoting responsible gaming in daily operations; and (3) supporting public awareness of responsible gaming. Mass Gaming will join and actively participate in the Massachusetts Partnership for Responsible Gambling for the express purpose of assisting the Town, or its designee, to address issues of treatment for compulsive behavior, especially problem gaming in Tewksbury.

Section 13. Mass Gaming shall be solely responsible for selection of contractors for the construction of any infrastructure improvements undertaken directly by it.

Sections 14 through 15 and 20 through 36. These Sections incorporate general contract language governing selection of contractors, term, the payment of Town professional fees by Mass Gaming, notices, no third party beneficiaries, assignment, transfer or collateral use, relationship of the parties, force majeure, integration clause, default, amendments, dispute resolution, governing law, counterparty, severability, compliance with laws by Mass Gaming, and the conditions precedent to Mass Gaming's obligations under the Agreement, and limitation of liability.

Section 16. Commencing with the first year of operations of the gaming establishment, Mass Gaming agrees to make during each year of operations monetary donations to non-profit entities that serve Tewksbury citizens, with the recipients and amounts of such donations within Mass Gaming's discretion. Mass Gaming will report annually to the Town on its charitable contributions.

Sections 17 and 18. Mass Gaming agrees that, if in its discretion it utilizes the police, firefighting or ambulance services of the Town of Tewksbury, Mass Gaming will pay the Town for those services pursuant to mutually agreed arrangements.

Section 19. The Town assumes the obligation to: (i) exercise reasonable efforts to petition the Massachusetts Gaming Commission for monies made available under the Massachusetts Gaming Act, including those monies in the Community Mitigation Fund and the Transportation Infrastructure Development Fund; (ii) not impose any taxes, fees, assessments or costs to Mass Gaming or the Premises, or cause or permit any inordinate impositions against a gaming facility; and that are not generally applicable to other businesses located in the Town; (iii) to use reasonable efforts to help expedite all necessary permits, approvals, consents, and entitlements necessary or desired by Mass Gaming in connection with the development and operation of the Premises; and (iv) to use reasonable efforts to provide assistance to Mass Gaming in resolving any issues or disputes arising with surrounding communities in any way related to gaming or the Premises (or the use thereof).

Section 37. Section 37 requires certain payments under the Agreement to be made to separate accounts for the specific purposes that such payments are made under the Agreement.

Reviewed and Approved by Town Counsel on this 22 day of July, 2013.

After spending 100 days hospitalized...

Marathon bombing victim finally comes home

By PATRICK BLAIS
Staff reporter

STONEHAM - It's a story of incredible heartache and unimaginable perseverance.

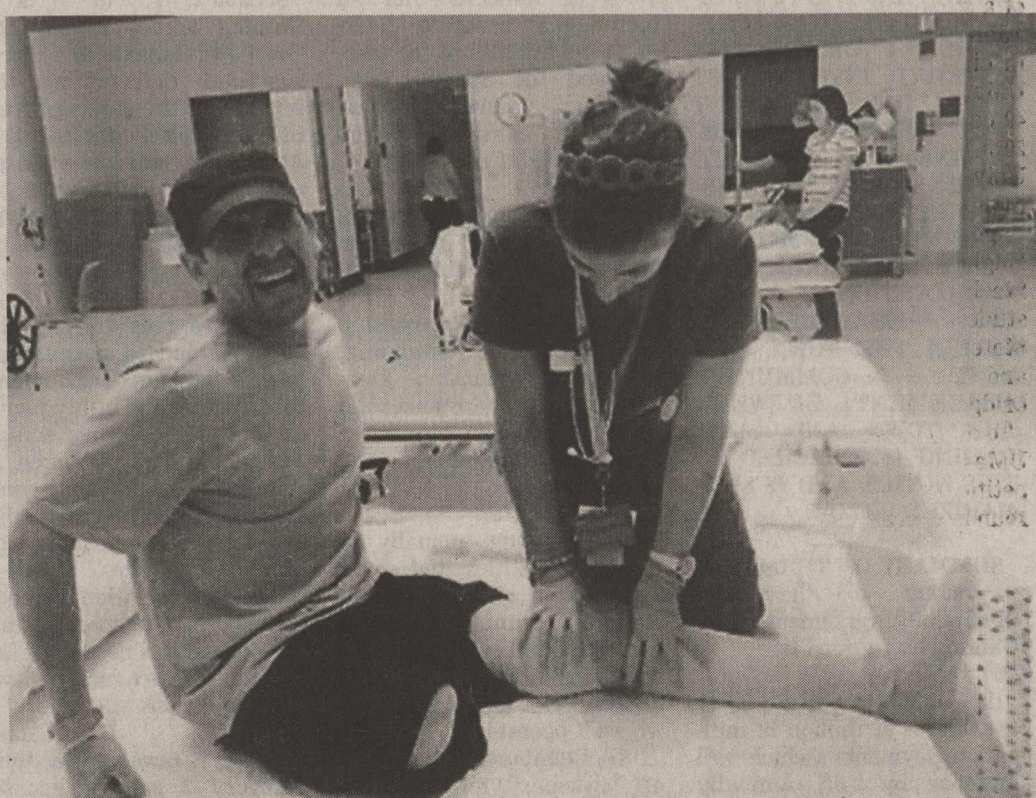

This Wednesday morning, after spending more than 100 days hospitalized while recovering from grisly injuries sustained in the twin bombings at the finish line of the Boston Marathon last April, Stoneham native Marc Fucarile became the last of more than 260 people injured in the blasts to be discharged from a medical facility.

Fucarile's relatives, doctors and therapists gathered at the lobby of Spaulding Rehabilitation Hospital in Charlestown on Wednesday morning to say farewell as he headed home for the first time since the April 15 bombings.

"Wednesday will be 100 days! There are no words to describe how happy and relieved the family is to finally have a date set to bring my brother home," commented Fucarile's sister, Stephanie Fucarile Baron, on a social media page established to give updates on her brother.

"Thank you all again, and please continue to keep Marc in your prayers. Marc, you have been an inspiration to all and deserve nothing but the best. We love you," his sister continued.

The SHS alumnus is one of six people who either reside or were born in Stoneham injured in the marathon Grimacing in pain - doing what is necessary- Marc Fucarile still has a long way to go, but today, Wednesday, July 24th he is home, finally home.

bombings. Two other people with Fucarile at the finish line also lost their legs, while other local victims sustained injuries ranging from third degree burns, to shrapnel wounds, to hearing loss.

Fucarile, whose brother Edward is a member of the Stoneham Police Dept., was perhaps the most severely-wounded victim with local connections.

Besides losing his right leg above his knee, he also had shrapnel lodged near his heart and sustained first, second, and third degree burns over most of his body. His left leg, which doctors for a while worried might also have to be amputated, was fractured in several places.

Brought in the wake of the bombings to Mass. General Hospital, Fucarile was reportedly unconscious and unable to communicate with family members for nearly a week, before he finally awoke and was able to speak with his fiancé, Jen Regan.

Since being hospitalized, the Stoneham native has been to the operating room 15 times, when doctors performed 45 different operative procedures. While in the Charlestown hospital, he has endured grueling rehabilitation sessions, while also struggling from infections in his amputated right leg, where several bone spurs also grew.

"Eighty-four days later and Marc is still not home," his sister despaired in one posting to the webpage established for Fucarile. "He still remains at Spaulding Hospital and has not spent one night at home with his son Gavin and fiancé Jen."

"Marc is still working harder than ever to get home to Gavin, Jen, and our entire family," Baron would write 11 days later, as her sibling recovered from his latest surgical procedure. "Marc, we love you so much and are so unbelievably proud of you. You amaze us every day. Your strength and determination is incredible."

You are the strongest person we know."

As Fucarile heads home, supporters continue to raise money on his behalf to help defray the medical bills associated with his recovery. More than $100,000 has already been contributed, but his family hopes to raise about $500,000.

To make a contribution, log on to helpmarcfucarile.com. Donations can also be mailed to The Marc Fucarile Fund; c/o Stoneham ME Federal Credit Union; 40 Pine Street; Stoneham, MA 02180.

Also, on Saturday, Sept. 21, a motorcycle ride and fundraiser for Marc will be hosted at the Billerica Elks. The ride is expected to begin at 10 a.m., and the fundraiser, which will include food, raffles, and live music, will follow between 1 p.m. and 6 p.m.

McDermott part of UMass Lowell's engineering competition

Students who attend UMass Lowell participated for the first time in the championship round of a national engineering competition that asked them to design and build a model of a steel bridge.

James McDermott of Tewksbury, majoring in civil engineering, was a member of the UMass Lowell team that placed 14th among 49 collegiate teams in the final round of the 2013 Steel Bridge Competition held at the University of Washington in Seattle last month.

Sponsored by the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Institute of Steel Construction, the competition asked student teams from across the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico to design and fabricate a scale model of a steel bridge, then build it on site.

To advance to the championship round, the UMass Lowell team placed third in the competition's regional finals. Teams in both rounds were judged on how quickly they could assemble their bridge, its structural efficiency, economy, lightness and stiffness, and the quality of a presentation about their work.

The bridge built by the UMass Lowell team spanned 15 feet, 10.5 inches, weighed 104 pounds and could support 2,500 pounds of distributed weight. Its 39 sections were held together by 66 bolts. In the championship round, team members assembled the entire bridge in less than 11 minutes.

"We are fairly new to this competition, so it felt really good to be able to compete. We did exceptionally well and we are very pleased with our results," said Ross Gladstone, who served as the UMass Lowell team's student leader.

The 19-person team was advised by UMass Lowell faculty members Susan Faraji, who teaches structural engineering, and Paul DeStefano of the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering.

Barbara Michaud, Children's Librarian was holding kids' attention (well, most of them) at the Wilmington Library on Friday during story hour.

Does this sound familiar? Your mouth is a mess. It became this way because, well you just gave up. You have had a number of unpleasant experiences. They range from being lectured, almost scolded for the condition of your teeth, to being hurt in the "chair". You have untreated problems. They don't hurt now and it is easier to "forget about them" than go through the process once again.

I am inviting you to visit me to give it one more chance. We'll talk to you. We'll listen. There's nothing you have that I haven't seen before. I'll give you options - no pressure - just an unbelievably pleasant experience that will likely win back your trust and confidence. So go ahead, hold me to this, give it one more try. I'll bet you'll leave smiling. Now that's something I'm really proud of, restoring your smile and confidence, also providing periodontic - implant dentistry and anesthesia services.

Selectmen round-up

Onusseit to retire

BY CHRISTINE KENNEY
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - At the Monday, July 15, Board of Selectmen meeting, Jeffrey Hull, town manager, announced that Donald Onusseit, Public Works superintendent, is planning to retire on November 15, 2013. Expressing the benefits of promoting from within, Hull added that Michael Woods, water/sewer superintendent, will take on Onusseit's role in addition to his current position.

"Under Mr. Onusseit's direction, the DPW has continued to provide a high level of services ranging from snow removal to trash and recycling collection, maintenance of local roads and the upkeep of athletic fields, playgrounds and other town grounds," Hull wrote in a letter to the board, which he read aloud at the meeting.

Hull said the decision to appoint Woods as the new Public Works superintendent was made based on his performance in the department for the last 24 years, during which Woods held roles such as assistant town engineer and assistant water/sewer superintendent.

"Mr. Woods has demonstrated a strong ability to manage personnel, projects and budgets. His ability to work constructively with employees has led to a more efficient operation that works in conjunction with other Department of Public Works divisions," Hull said.

As part of the transition, Woods will fully integrate water and sewer into the DPW structure as a whole.

"Full integration of water and sewer into the other DPW operations will create opportunities for greater efficiencies in the use for resources," Hull said.

The board was in support of Hull's appointment of Woods, and wished Onusseit the best in his retirement.

"I wanted to congratulate Don and Mike: Don for a wonderful career, and Mike, well, it's always great to see good things happen to good people," said Selectman Michael Champoux.

Eastern Bank

The board also voted to renew a contract that the town has with Eastern Bank. According to Pamela MacKenzie, town treasurer/collector, the contract goes up for bid every three years. Eastern Bank continues to be the most attractive bid because it costs the town zero dollars.

According to Hull, the town has been under contract with Eastern Bank for six years, during which MacKenzie said, "There truly has been no cost to the town."

The town has agreements with other banks for various accounts that do generate interest but do have a cost.

The board approved the contract unanimously, meaning MacKenzie can continue on with the town's relationship with the bank as it currently stands.

Surette named to Dean's List

Eric Surette, a resident of Wilmington and a Biology major in the class of 2016, was named to the Dean's list in Ithaca College's School of Humanities and Sciences for the Spring 2013 semester.

From day one, Ithaca

College prepares students for success through hands-on experience with internships, research and study abroad. Its integrative curriculum builds bridges across disciplines and uniquely blends liberal arts and professional study. Located in New York's Finger Lakes region, the College is home to 6,100 undergraduate and 400 graduate students.

Parole Board member sues state staff.

The Herald reported from court documents in Essex Superior Court by Lombardini, a Peabody resident, and others that "it would get ugly" if they didn't sign the prepared resignation letter. Lombardi claims she and other board members arrived at a meeting with then-Public Safety Secretary Mary Beth Heffernan to find a state trooper and a civilian carrying photos of the board members, who then asked board members if they were armed, according to the suit. "That question shocked and intimidated," said Lombardini in the suit.

The procedure then was to herd the parole board members into an ante-room where Cowan stood at the head of the table told the board members "that although Patrick believed that they had done nothing wrong with regard to the Cinelli matter, Patrick had instructed Cowan to obtain letters of resignation from all of the board members," according to the suit.

According to paperwork at the court, Cowan distributed pre-written letters of resignation and instructed them to sign them. Cowan gave them 10 minutes.

Wilmington resident climbing the ladder with Brewers

Peterson continues his success in minor leagues

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Stephen Peterson is a lot like most Wilmington residents. The Wilmington native and 2006 graduate of St. John's Prep grew up a fan of all the Boston sports teams, especially the Bruins. He enjoys occasionally heading down to Ristuccia Arena to watch his beloved Bruins practice. Even though he went to St. John's Prep, he takes great pride in the great athletic traditions in the town of Wilmington.

Yes, he is just your every day Wilmingtonite. Except for one thing. Some day, in the not too distant future, he may very well be taking the mound at Fenway Park, and many other ball parks around the major leagues.

Peterson is a relief pitcher in the Milwaukee Brewers organization, currently in his third year of professional baseball after signing as an undrafted free agent with the Brewers in 2011 after graduating from the University of Rhode Island.

He has steadily climbed the ladder through the Brewers organization in his first three years, starting in the Arizona Rookie League in 2011, followed by a fine championship season with the Class 'A' Wisconsin Timber Rattlers last season, before moving on to the Advanced 'A' Florida State League's Brevard County Manatees this season.

With Brevard County Peterson has continued his upward spiral with a 3-0 record to this point in the season, posting a 3.00 ERA. He has appeared in 29 games for the Manatees, good for second on the team, and is averaging nearly a strikeout per inning, with 40 strikeouts in 44 innings.

Making his season even more impressive is that he is coming off knee surgery last August, putting him through a painful rehabilitation as he fought to be ready for the start of the season. Bruins rehabilitation coordinator Scott Waugh worked closely with Peters on as he prepared for spring training. As it turns out he has been more than ready, getting off to a strong start to the season and carrying it well into the second half.

"It was a long rehab process and it was a lot of hard work," Peterson said. "Scott put me through a lot of hard work so I would be set for the season. I felt great coming out of spring training. I haven't really changed anything from last year. I talked to the coaches to help me work on things, but mainly I worked hard to be mentally and physically prepared for the season."

The hard work has paid off for Peterson and his teammates, as the Manatees are within 1 1/2 games of the Florida State League's North Division lead for the second half of the season.

The Manatees missed out on the first half division title by just a half game to the Dunedin Blue Jays.

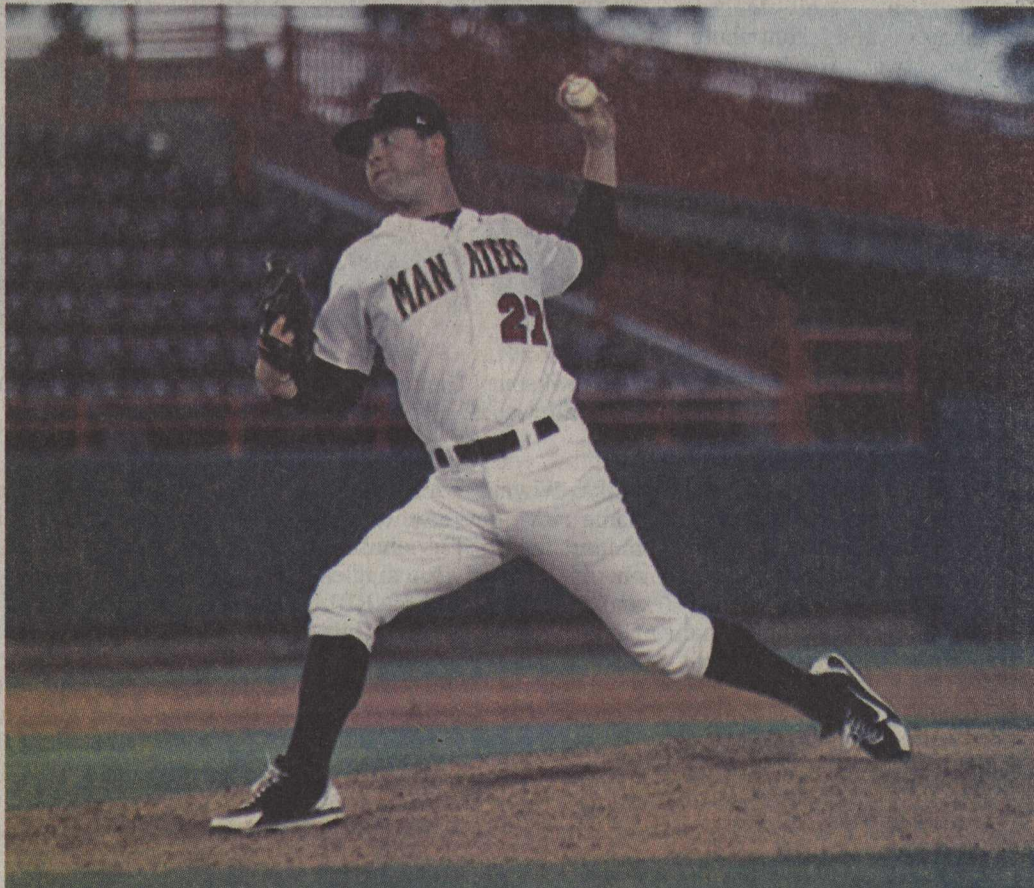

"We would have liked to win the first half to qualify for the playoff spot, but we are excited now to be playing well in the second half," Peterson said. "We've got a little more than a month to go and I think we have a really good shot at the playoffs."

Peterson of course has been a big part of the Manatees success, being used in a variety of roles, even picking up one save on the season. But mainly he is called upon when the opponent is threatening in the late innings of a ball game to help preserve a lead or keep his team close so they can attempt to come back.

"One of the things they told me going into the season was to be ready for anything so I have been ready for whatever role they have for me," Peterson said. "Whether that is the beginning of the game, or late in the game. All different kinds of situations. When you are working your way up like I am you want to be put in every situation and face as many different hitters as you can."

Brevard County manager Joe Ayrault knows what an asset he has in his bullpen in the versatile Peterson.

"He is someone we can use in any situation," Ayrault said. "His off speed stuff is coming along well to go along with his fastball. He's got great composure and he is very durable. He attacks the hitter and he has been very consistent for us. He is a good guy to have on the team."

Peterson made the conversion to the bullpen in his first year in the Brewers organization after being a starter in high school and college. He has made the transition smoothly and he hopes to continue his success as he moves further up the organizational ladder.

After stepping up a level in each of his first three seasons in professional baseball, he is hoping to continue his climb next season and in years to come.

"Every year you want to take the next step," Peterson said. "If you prepare yourself the right way and do the right things and work on what the organization wants you to work on, you will have success and continue to move up, hopefully eventually all the way to the big leagues."

Like every player in the minor leagues, that is the ultimate goal for Peterson of course, to someday be taking the mound in a major

Rocco making a big leap in the coaching ranks

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

When Assumption College was looking for a new coach to help rebuild its baseball program after struggling for the past couple of seasons, they knew just the man to look for.

Tewksbury's Mike Rocco is no stranger to building a successful program, as he has spent the past three years leading the Lesley University baseball team in their first years of existence, building them from an 0-28 record in their first year to an eight win team in his second season when he was named the NECC Coach of the Year, to this past season when he led the Lynx to a 13 win season.

His brilliant job with Lesley was likely a big reason why on June 19 Assumption named Rocco - a three-sport star who graduated from TMHS in 2003 and was also the Town Crier's Male Athlete of the Decade -- its new head coach.

Unlike Lesley when Rocco arrived, Assumption has a long and rich tradition in their baseball program, but in the past few years they have fallen on hard times, including a 13-33 record last season and a 25-64 combined record in the past two seasons.

Rocco seems to be the perfect choice to lift the Greyhounds back to previous heights and he could not be more excited for the opportunity.

"It's very exciting to be in this position," Rocco said. "Assumption has a great reputation and is well known for having a great sports tradition in the Northeast-10 Conference since moving up to Division 2. It is a big jump up in competition, but I think we are in a position where we can do very well."

His experience at Lesley where he basically built a program from the ground up is obviously different in many ways than taking over an established program like the one at Assumption, but Rocco says that his experience at Lesley, as well as his prior experience as an assistant coach at Daniel Webster College where he helped coach J.P. Pyne build a successful program, cannot do anything but help him in his new position.

"Obviously spending the last three years as a head coach will help a lot," Rocco said. "I feel like I have matured a lot as a coach over that time. I had to do some things that other coaches don't have to do since we were just starting the program, and I think what I have learned should definitely help me at Assumption."

Assumption Athletic Director Nick Smith knows he has tabbed a winner in selecting Rocco as the man to lead the school's baseball squad.

"I am very excited to welcome Mike to the Assumption College coaching staff," Smith said in a press release on the school's web site. "As we strive for excellence on the playing field, in the classroom and in the community, I believe that Mike's enthusiasm and

Tewksbury Under 14 Softball team remains red-hot

The Tewksbury Redmen 14U Softball team traveled to Vermont for their third tournament of the season.

The girls started the Saturday pool play against the Dracut Dominators, where Adrianna Favreau had an impressive outing giving up just one hit, allowing no runs, and striking out 6 during her five innings of work. Nicole Petherbridge led the offense with two hits, and had a solid performance behind the plate. Molly Robertson and Marissa Doherty and contributed with two RBI's each, Doherty's in a big third inning which saw the Redmen score six runs as they defeated Dracut 8-0.

In game two, Erika Whynot took the mound against the NH Northern Lights and again it was a one-hit shutout, this time with four strike-outs. The offense was there for Whynot with Nora Butler leading the team with two doubles, a single, and three RBI for the game. Colleen MacNeil had a double and two runs scored for the game. Emily Veloza had two singles, and two runs scored.

Defensively, third baseman Kirsten Dick and second baseman Christina Noyes combined with Colleen MacNeil for seven infield outs and a final score of 12-0.

The bats stayed hot for game three of Saturday pool play against the Vermont Storm. Nora Butler and

The Tewksbury Under 14 Softball team is enjoying a tremendous summer season with a 17-1 overall record. (courtesy photo).

Erika Whynot each had a home run. Favreau, on the mound again for another one hitter, had two singles and a double, and three RBI. Emily Veloza had two hits and two runs scored in a 17-2 defeat of the Vermont team.

With the dominant Saturday play, the Redmen were awarded the No. 1 seed for Sunday. They played the Westford Waves in their morning game. Erika Whynot was on the mound, and the game started with a single, an out at first and the Waves runner on second. The next hitter singled to right, scoring a run, on the throw home, the runner tried to steal second, but Petherbridge made a nice throw and Butler a nice tag to erase the runner. A line out to Nora Butler ended the Waves threat in the first with only one run scored.

The Redmen answered in the bottom with a lead-off single by Doherty. Kirsten Dick laid down a perfect bunt, reaching safely, and moving Doherty to second. Petherbridge bunted on the next at bat, and again reached safely while moving the runners.

With the bases loaded and one out, Favreau put the ball in play to short, Westford tried the play at the plate, but Doherty scored safely with her speed, and all other players were safe with the game now tied 1-1.

Whynot hit a big double to center field, scoring Dick and Petherbridge, and moving Favreau to third, but the Waves were able to make the next two outs stranding the runner, but giving the Redmen an important 2tworun lead.

In the second inning, Noyes made a great catch in right, and Robertson made numerous putouts in the next few innings, including combining with Butler and MacNeil for a sweet 6-4-3 double play as the Redmen were able to hold the Waves scoreless for five innings.

The Redmen were able to add three more runs, two in the third on doubles from Favreau, Whynot (RBI), and MacNeil, a bunt from Noyes, and a single from Robertson (RBI), and one in the fifth on doubles from Favreau and MacNeil (RBI).

With a 6-1 lead in the final inning, the Waves made it interesting but came up short, and the Redmen and Whynot took home the win 6-4.

The Redmen faced the Brattleboro Heat in the semi-finals and easily moved on with a 12-0 win in four innings. Favreau pitched a one hitter for the Redmen. The Redmen were too much for the Heat who gave up four runs in the first and seven runs in the third. Karina Crowley scored the winning run for the Redmen.

The Redmen played the NH Lightening in the finals, and jumped out to an early lead. After some great catches by Favreau in left, and Dick at third in the defensive half of the inning, Doherty got on base with one of her three hits of the game. Doherty then stole second and third. Dick walked and stole second, setting up for a Petherbridge sacrifice which scored Doherty and moved Dick to third. Butler hit a sacrifice fly to score Dick, and the Redmen had a 2-0 lead.

Doherty made a nice catch in the second to keep the Lightening off the board. The Redmen added a couple to their lead in the third inning, with another hit by Doherty, walk by Dick, single by Petherbridge, and an RBI single by Butler to score Doherty, and a pop-up by Favreau, on which Dick was able to tag up and score.

The Redmen had a 4-1 lead after 3.5 innings, but the Redmen were able to add five more runs in their half of the fourth on a walk by MacNeil, singles by Robertson, Doherty, Petherbridge (2 RBI), Butler, and a Favreau two run triple (scoring Crowley running for Petherbridge and Butler).

The Lightening were retired in order by Whynot in the bottom of the fifth for the championship.

The Redmen are now 17-1 on the season.

Wilmington 'Big Diamond' Baseball team wins four games

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington Big Diamond 13-and-14 year-old baseball team has just completed one of the biggest challenges of their entire season. As temperatures sailed to agonizing extremes, the Wildcats struggled through four games in five days, coming out the other side with four victories and an overall record of 8-1 for the season so far.

The games against Salem, Marblehead and North Andover took an extreme physical and emotional toll on the team, leaving them triumphant but debilitated. Head coach Scott Edwards shares his players' elation, as well as their exhaustion. "They work with each other, all the time. They never get down on each other," Edwards said.

This came in handy during this run of games, as Wilmington often found themselves battling back to cover a deficit and steal a victory from the opposing teams.

At one point, North Andover leading Wilmington, 8-5, going into the final innings of the game. Wilmington rallied back and proceeded to pound the ball to rack up six runs, winning the game with a final score of 11-8.

In their second game against North Andover, Wilmington left them no opening to take control. Wilmington belted the ball again and again, racking up points for a final score of 9-2.

The Marblehead game also found Wilmington scrambling to come from behind to squeak out a victory in the last innings, trailing 2-6 heading into the concluding innings. But Wilmington fought back and won the game with final score of 10-9.

Edwards attributed much of the success to the outstanding pitching from a variety of hands. Edmund Deanglis and Will Mills threw for over 90 pitches each, while Darren MacEachern contributed 70 pitches.

"The games were not all pitch-perfect. But these boys have a real will to win. They have a will to play, even when everything is against them," Edwards said.

Also impressive was the pitching debut of Joey Riberio, a twelve-year old who is going toe to toe with players three and four years his superior.

The Salem game was an important opportunity for the team, as Salem had issued Wilmington's only defeat so far, spanking Wilmington 15-5. Wilmington handily avenged that loss, sending Salem home with their tail between their legs with a final score of 12-7.

Wilmington was scheduled for a fifth game on Tuesday night, but the game was cancelled due to the opposing team lacking sufficient players. While Edwards had been hoping to play, he admitted that a brief pause in the schedule was what the team needed to catch its breath.

Not helping things was the oppressive sun and heat of the past week, pounding on the players' heads and drawing sweat from the coaches and spectators who were doing nothing beyond watching the game.

"You can see it affecting them inning by inning. Hydration is so important, and you can see that represented on the field. The kids who hydrated were able to stand up longer than the kids who didn't. On days like that, it is so crucial to get water," Edwards explained.

Wilmington has five games left on the schedule, and Edwards has his eyes set on the playoffs.

"All of them can play. This is a solid, solid team and I am extremely fortunate to have this amount of talent to work with. If they can continue to play this way, good things are definitely in their future," said Edwards.

Astros take Jr. League championship

The Wilmington Junior League Astros defeated the Dodgers 7-4 recently to capture the league Championship Title.

The Astros finished with a record of 11-4-1 including the playoffs.

The Astros pitching this season was led by Justin Eckstrom, Chris Grecco, Matt Cronin, David Bailey, Jon Sears, and Darin MacEachern.

Kyle Ritson, Darren LeBlanc, Brian Kelley, and Bryan Domek anchored the team's defense, making many countless put outs throughout the infield and the outfield.

Offensively the bats of Cronin, Grecco, MacEachern, and Alex Fanikos provided power throughout the lineup. Bailey, Eckstrom, and Jason Spizzucco lead the team in on base percentage and steals providing the needed speed to score nearly 100 runs in the season.

Sears and Nick Fanikos led the team in clutch hits providing many exciting moments for the Astros, who fought hard every game and came from behind on several occasions to pull out wins.

Tewksbury Northeast team wraps up season

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

Tewksbury High School's summer baseball team ended their season on an extremely strong note, battling the visiting Lynnfield squad to emerge victorious with a 5-1 decision.

Tewksbury's effort was spear-headed by Joe Bali, who commanded the mound for five innings and led the offensive charge by smashing the ball to drive in needed runs.

Lynnfield took an early lead, putting a crooked number up in the first inning. Leading off with a double, a series of single-base hits allowed the Lynnfield runner to sneak home.

Tewksbury would initially struggle to make up the difference. Runners were stranded on base, leaving Tewksbury trailing behind Lynnfield.

Luckily, the defensive end of the team more than made up the difference. Bali kept putting the ball in the right position, getting a strike out and two runners out at first.

Tewksbury continued to squander their offensive chances in the second and third, with two singles being stranded on base. No batter passion for the game and the student-athletes will help us reach our goals. Mike brings experience as both a player and a head coach and I am pleased to have him joining our department."

Rocco making a leap in coaching ranks

Rocco's experience goes far beyond his recent stint at Lesley. In addition to his aforementioned time at Daniel Webster, where in addition to working with hitters and infielders he was also the program's recruiting director, he also served as an assistant coach with the Keene Swamp Bats of the New England Collegiate Baseball League in 2008. He is also currently working as an assistant with the Nashua Silver Knights of the Futures College Baseball League.

Rocco began his coaching career with the Billerica American Legion program and also assisted with the Lowell American Legion team for one season. Clearly he has gained plenty of experience at a very young age.

"I think it was important for me to start coaching at such a young age," Rocco said. "Because I started so early, I found out at a young age that this was what I wanted to do with the rest of my life. When I got the assistant coaching job at Daniel Webster, I was still not sure if it was something I wanted to make a career out of, but after my first full season of working with coach Pyne, I just fell in love with it and knew it was what I wanted to do."

Even before Daniel Webster Rocco had already developed an interest in coaching and picked up some very good qualities from the men who had coached him at Tewksbury High as well as in his college playing days at Bryant, and he has tried to use some of those qualities in his own coaching approach.

"Going back to high school with coach (Brian) Aylward, coach (Ron) Drouin and coach (Jim) Sullivan, I learned a lot from each of them," Rocco said. "I learned a lot from my coaches at Bryant as well as with my Legion coaches during the summer leagues. I feel like I have taken a little bit from each of them, and use what I learned from each of them, but I also put my own spin on it."

At Assumption he will be faced with a similar situation to the one that he and coach Pyne faced at Daniel Webster in terms of helping to rebuild an established program, and Rocco is ready for the challenge.

"I am really looking forward to it," Rocco said. "When coach Pyne got the coaching job at Daniel Webster it was part of a turnaround and now he has turned them into one of the top Division 3 programs in New England. I would like to have that same kind of success. It is a challenge that I am looking forward to."

"I am eager to get out there and get started. I have already met some of the returning guys and I am really looking forward to getting out there and getting Assumption baseball on the right track."

Peterson continues his success in minor league baseball that goal, but he also knows he must take care of the business at hand with the Manatees before he can think about moving up to the next level, let alone the big leagues.

"It is something that you obviously think about," Peterson said. "Every day on the field there has to be a purpose to what you are doing. You can't take a day off, especially for someone like me who signed as a free agent. You are always trying to prove people wrong, and you are always trying to get better every single day to reach that ultimate goal."

"But right now we are just worried about doing as well as we can as a team to try and make the playoffs. We are a close team and we have a lot of the same guys who won the Midwest League title last season, so we would love to get to the playoffs again. There are no individuals on this team, we just want to keep winning together."

That being said, Ayrault knows that Peterson will be one of the individuals on the team that he will be counting on most down the stretch of the second half of the season.

"He is a good team leader and he comes to the ball park every day with a good attitude and ready to play," Ayrault said. "He is able to come in for us in key situations and get guys out. He is definitely somebody we will be counting on the rest of the season."

As happy as Ayrault has been with Peterson's performance this season, Peterson has been thrilled to play under his guidance, as well as that of pitching coach Mark Dewey.

"They are both unbelievable guys. They are two of the best manager and pitching coach I have ever had," Peterson said. "It's just everything that they do, from the way they treat you to the way they talk to you. The players pick up on that and feed off of that. With their positive attitude, we are always excited to take the field."

Peterson has also had quite the influence on Ayrault, or at least on his five year old son.

"He bought my son his first hockey jersey, a Bruins jersey, and he has brainwashed him into being a Bruins fan," Ayrault joked. "But he will not convert him to the Patriots. My son is still a Redskins fan like me."

With any luck Peterson will reluctantly say good bye to the Manatees coaching staff at the end of the season and he will have a new manager and pitching coach next season at a higher level of minor league baseball. But wherever he is, one thing he will always remember is where he came from.

"It's always great to talk to you guys (at the Town Crier) and to talk baseball," Peterson said. "I always enjoy catching up on what is going in Wilmington and I always like coming home. It is a great sports town and I love spending time there."

Who knows? Maybe someday he will be spending his off-season in Wilmington on a break from the big leagues.

Wildcats fall to Billerica, 3-2

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington Northeast team played its final game of the season last Sunday, going head to head with Billerica at the North Intermediate School. Though Wilmington ultimately fell to Billerica, 3-2, in the final innings, the Wildcats battled them innings after innings and made Billerica fight for every advantage. Matt Spurr was the starting pitcher for Wilmington and he did an able job on the mound, putting the ball in the right position for Wilmington fielding to make easy outs at first. Billerica managed to make solid contact and scored two runs in the first inning.

For their part, the Wilmington offense made a strong effort, making their own dent in the scoreboard right off the bat. Spurr got the first Wilmington hit of the game with a single. Cory Stillings pounded the ball for a single, sending Spurr to third. Devin Field hit the ball into the deep outfield which, while caught, gave Spurr the needed time to score.

More strong defense for Wilmington held Billerica at bay. Joe Scurto made a tough snag to catch out a runner on third base, ending an eminent threat. A catch by Jimmy Murphy finished the inning.

Wilmington would next score in the third, courtesy of strong hitting and base running by Brian Cavanaugh. Cavanaugh hit a single, then stole his way to third during subsequent at-bats. When Billerica overthrew the ball, Cavanaugh seized the opportunity and dashed home, making it across home plate while standing up. The game was now tied, 2-2.

Tewksbury Northeast Baseball team ends its season reached base in the third inning, with two batters being caught out and a third falling to a strike out.

Lynnfield made another big offensive push in the fourth inning. After a pair of singles and a walk, the bases were loaded and Lynnfield was primed to leap onto any possible opening to further their lead.

The Tewksbury defense was having none of that, shutting down Lynnfield runners before they could get any momentum going. Ryan Bain made a leaping dive to tag out a Lynnfield runner en route to third base, ending the inning and bringing Tewksbury up to bat.

It was in the bottom of the fourth that Tewksbury surged to the lead, where they would remain for the rest of the game. Bali belted a single into the deep field, driving in a pair of runs. During on-field confusion among Lynnfield fielders, Bali managed to dash to third.

Bali would be driven home by Nick Torres. Though Torres was tagged out while attempting to get to second, it caused enough distraction for Bali to make it home making it a 3-1 ballgame.

Tewksbury continued to shut down every attempt by Lynnfield to retake the lead. Bali struck out two Lynnfield batters and the third was ably handled by fielders.

Torres took over pitching in the sixth inning. Another big snag and throw by Bain took down Lynnfield's first batter.

More great hitting by Tewksbury resulted in another two runs, putting the score at 5-1. After one more at-bat by Lynnfield, and three strike outs for Torres, Tewksbury went home triumphant.

Head coach Steve Torres was extremely happy with the team effort that led to this victory.

"Today there is no doubt that the pitching was outstanding. Our senior statesmen stepped up and really played the game. And we had some really great, timely hitting from everyone, including the younger guys like Nick and Ryan Bain."

Torres held the Bain boys in particularly high esteem for their work throughout the summer.

"Those guys have been our all-stars this season; they were solid all season long," Torres said.

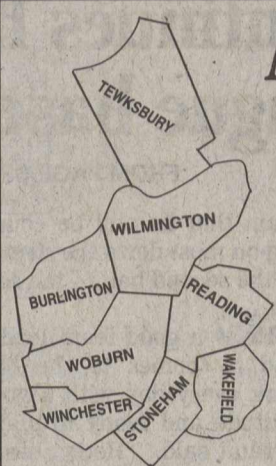

The team has struggled to cohere over the summer, as numbers fluctuated and weather dictated many changes in the schedule. Torres was glad to see the team really congeal into a unified whole in the last game to end on such a positive note.

"Everybody did their job today," he said. "I think when the Lynnfield pitcher made a mistake, we jumped on it. Everything came together really nice. Things just seemed to line up."

Reflecting on the summer season, Torres wishes that the hitting and offensive play had been stronger, but praised the pitching staff. Mostly, he laments that the team did not have the proper amount of practice time to smooth out the rough edges and reach the next level of play.

"If I had another season with these kids, I would practice more. The thing is, it was hard enough to get kids to games, let alone tell them that they have to practice in 100 degree heat," Torres said.

Hopefully, the team can refine the strengths and talents that they demonstrated in the summer season and move onto even greater victories in high school play.

Wildcats fall to Billerica in Northeast Baseball play

The game remained tied for the next several innings. Big catches by Pat Finn and Matt Woods ended Billerica's offensive hopes, as well as ongoing strong pitching by Spurr.

In the fifth inning, Scurto took over Wilmington pitching, silencing all three Billerica batters.

Wilmington made a big offensive push in the fifth inning but could not get the needed runs. Hits by Scurto and Spurr yielded no runs.

Neither team found any success in the sixth, with all three Wilmington batters being thrown out at first.

The stalemate broke in the seventh inning. After two strike outs, Scurto yielded a single to a Billerica batter. Unfortunately, this was all the opportunity that Billerica would need. They followed up this single with a triple to deep right, driving in the winning run.

Wilmington coach Rick Hill was disappointed with the outcome, but proud of the effort his team put forth.

"The kids that were here today, they gave it everything they had. I don't think anything could have gone differently against a team this strong," he said.

He was relieved to see that the Wilmington team had learned from experience and was capable of making smart, decisive plays on defense to shut down the opposition.

"Before the game we talked about how important it was to hit the cut-off man and to not throw the ball around, and to pay attention when we were on the bases. And, during the game, they did all of those things."

While Hill wished that the team had had more offensive presence, he praised the strong showing by the defense, especially from pitchers Spurr and Scurto.

"Matt Spurr came in and pitched the first four innings and did a great job. Joe Scurto came in for the last three, and he did awesome. I don't think we could've asked for anything more."

Hill was very impressed by the Billerica team, and admitted that there was little the Wildcats could have done to stop their big bats and crafty base-running. He lamented the squandered opportunities of the Wildcats which might have changed the final outcome.

"They had a couple of plays that allowed them to get guys to third base and then those guys scored. We had the bases loaded and we just didn't score. That probably cost us the game."

But Hill ends the season happy with the team. Though the Wilmington team was formed from a multitude of ages and levels of ability, the players ultimately came together to form a single team dynamic that took on whatever came their way.

"The really cool thing is that these kids come from the (Wilmington High School) Freshmen team, the JV team, we have some varsity kids, and they all pull for each other. We had a really good bunch of kids and they were all really behind each other and it didn't matter who was on the field and who was on the bench," said Hill.

"If we advertise it, we'll have it when you get here. It's easy.
It's honest and it's guaranteed."

Former Winchester Police Officer John Morgan will wait until next year

As he battles cancer Ex-Winchester officer just misses meeting "Big Papi"

By RYAN LAROCHE

For a diehard Red Sox fan, everyday is a great day for baseball. Even when it's more than 90 degrees and humid, people flock to Fenway Park to watch the home team take on all comers.

Thus was the case on Saturday when Red Sox fan and former Winchester Police Officer John Morgan just missed out on meeting the slugger, as he was too sick to attend Saturday's game. (AP Photo/Charles Krupa) for the best in one regard, as not only was the temperature well above 90 degrees, but it also down poured causing a rain delay.

Morgan, though, wasn't going to simply see the Red Sox take on the Yankees. He had a special meeting set up with Sox slugger David "Big Papi" Ortiz. Morgan had a baseball he wanted Ortiz to sign. The ball came from his neighbor, Mike, a young boy in Little League. The ball was actually Mike's last home run. Morgan said the youngster is a very good player.

"He's a nice kid, a real gentleman," Morgan said about his neighbor. "Someone you'd be proud to call your own."

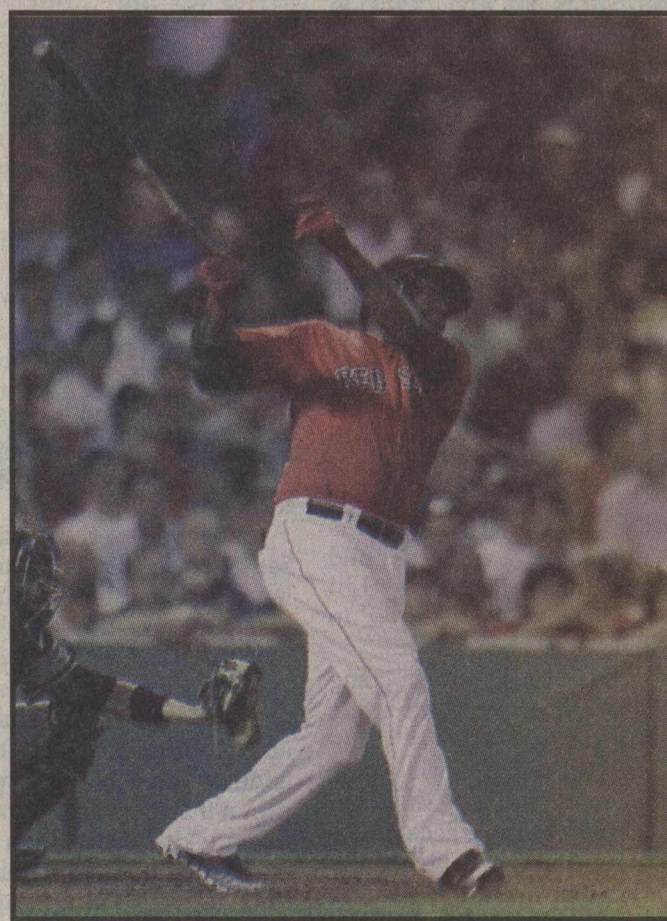

For those who aren't familiar with the former police officer, he was also married for 50 years to Elizabeth Bellino, sister of Heisman trophy winner Joe Bellino. His wife passed away from cancer seven years ago.

Morgan himself was an accomplished athlete, playing football, basketball and baseball at Burlington High School. He even threw a no-hitter his senior year.

He spent nearly 10 years as a Winchester Police Officer receiving two commendations: one for going above and beyond the call of duty in providing emergency care to a medical aid victim, and the other for diligence and alertness in apprehending several subjects burglarizing the Veterans of Foreign Wars statue.

During his time as an officer, Morgan took a leave of absence to direct Shelter Camp, Inc. in Riley, Maine. The camp offered vocational training and recreational activities for court acquainted youths between the ages of 12 and 17. Shelter Camp received children from all 17 DYS regions in Mass, but Morgan indicated a preference for rehabilitating Boston area troubled youth.

Unfortunately, Morgan said while the camp helped a lot of children, it wasn't financially successful.

Two tickets to a ballgame

Since Morgan was unable to attend the Sox game, he told his friend Stephen Comley, who helped set up the meeting with Ortiz, to go ahead without him. Comley said he showed up on time and 20 minutes later, after sweating under the blazing sun, got to enter the park thanks to the assistant of Community/Player Relations Assistant Director Sarah Narracci.

Comley told the assistant that Morgan was "very disappointed he was not able to come to the game and meet Papi," but that he had some souvenirs Ortiz could sign. Sadly, Ortiz was never able to sign the baseball for Morgan's young neighbor. Due to the weather, batting practice was limited and Ortiz wasn't out there. When Comley suggested giving the assistant the items to pass along to Ortiz, which he then would pick up later, the assistant declined fearing they may be misplaced.

Fortunately, all was not lost as the assistant did produce a baseball signed by Ortiz. When Comley eventually made it to his and Morgan's seat, he found another man in a wheelchair seated where the ex-officer would have sat had he been able to make it. Since he was all alone, Comley offered the space to the wheelchair bound man who just happened to be a Yankee fan from New York. Luckily for him, the Yankees came away with the victory.

Afterwards, Comley took the signed Ortiz ball and some additional memorabilia to Morgan's Little League neighbor Mike. He said that the youngster, having just returned from a Little League game, was quite happy to have been included in the day's festivities. He told Mike that he could share the signed Ortiz ball with Morgan.

Later, Comley gave the signed Ortiz ball to Morgan, plus the additional memorabilia (copy of the ticket, Red Sox banner, large picture of Fenway Park, large picture of Ortiz on the cover of the game schedule, and even a Fenway Frank for Morgan's dog Lille).

Dreams

Although Morgan missed the game on Saturday, he said he would try again next year. In the word's of any diehard Sox fan, "there's always next year" (a saying Sox fans uttered from 1919-2003).

Morgan said he admires Ortiz, whom he calls "Papi Walk-Off" for all of his walk-off hits.

"Papi Walk-Off" is my hero," Morgan confessed. "I call him 'Papi Walk-Off' because he's had almost 20 walk-off game-winners, most of them homers, and he brings excitement to every game

Movie Reviews

"The Conjuring"

by Paul Feely

"THE CONJURING" IS BASED ON the case files of renowned supernatural investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren, played by Patrick Wilson and Vera Farmiga. There are scary scenes but they're not unforgettable.

"THE CONJURING"
GRADE: **

"Based on a true story" has become the most over used cliché in horror cinema. It's become such a regular within the genre that viewers have become cynical, dismissing it almost as soon as it flashes upon the screen.

The Conjuring has slightly more claim to 'the truth' as it's based on the case files of renowned supernatural investigators Ed and Lorraine Warren (played by Patrick Wilson and Vera Farmiga). Celebrity ghostbusters (though they prefer the term demonologists) who appeared regularly on TV, in the tabloids and on the lecture circuit, they're most famous for their research on the Amityville 'House of Horror' and co-authoring books with titles such as Satan's Harvest and Werewolf: A True Story of Demonic Possession.

Of course many skeptics, academics and writers refute their wild claims but, whatever your view on the supposed reality of ghosts and demons, it's a great jumping off point for a movie.

Set in 1971, this particular case involves the Perron family, who have just moved into an old farmhouse in rural Rhode Island. As soon as they arrive you can tell something isn't quite right: their dog refuses to enter the house, temperatures fluctuate wildly and Carolyn Perron (Lili Taylor) wakes covered in mysterious bruises.

Soon clocks are stopping 3.07 am every night while something nasty is grabbing the children while they sleep. The supernatural activity quickly accelerates until Carolyn contacts the Warrens and they head to the house, bringing all the usual ghost hunting equipment (UV lamps, trigger cameras, mics, etc) with them as they attempt to exorcise the evil spirit.

While The Conjuring is well made, the shocks and scares are slickly delivered, there's little we haven't seen before. A real plus is the quality of the acting involved, Farmiga and Taylor in particular really commit to their roles through the dark and twisted narrative.

Modern films always reach that point where they have to finally show the audience the malevolent spirit; the slow build is always more satisfying than the final reveal, and it all gets a bit frantic in the closing reel.

Admittedly there are some deeply creepy moments and several terrifying jump scares that will jolt the audience as intended but there's little that will linger with you after the houselights come on.

"PACIFIC RIM"
GRADE: ****

If you ever wanted to see a movie with giant monsters battling giant robots, this is it.

And if you ever wanted to see a movie that is nothing but giant monsters battling giant robots, this is that movie.

Not much more to say after that. And thankfully, director Guillermo del Toro understands that. Rarely does a movie get to the point so quickly. Less than a minute into the running time there's a monster attacking a city and cars falling off a bridge and moments later, we get, you guessed it, a monster fighting a robot. And it's pretty much monsters and robots from then on.

Not that there's anything wrong with that. These are some pretty awesome monsters and robots.

So, here's the plot - there are monsters. We don't know where they came from but they arrive through some sort of portal under the Pacific Ocean. These are very, very big monsters known by the Japanese term "kaiju." Del Toro loves monsters, and these are absolutely fantastic. Like Ray Harryhausen, del Toro and his character design team understand that we need monsters to be at the same time very strange and very familiar, impossible but possible. These monsters are masterfully designed, marvelous and scary. There are blue, glowing tentacles and massive jaws with pointed teeth. They attack cities like Godzilla's gigantic brother, stomping and chomping.

What's cool here is the sheer scale of the things. Over and over, it takes your breath away.

At first, the humans think it is a one-time attack. But then there are others. And the earth has to recalibrate all notions of what is possible, all priorities. They have to find a way to fight the kaiju. They have to build robots the size of the Empire State Building.

The robots look great, with ninja heads and believable scuffs and dents. Some of what they do does not seem physically possible but mostly their movements seem to make sense and feel believably powerful and weighty.

What goes on inside, not so much. We can build robots the size of a skyscraper but the arms and legs have to be operated manually, like a kind of gym stair-stepper? And what is this mumbo-jumbo about how the pairs who operate them have to be able to "drift" - meld their neural pathways so they can access each other's thoughts? Oh, well, let's get to the battle royales.

There are a couple of good touches about the way different elements of civilization respond to the monsters. But there were robots fighting monsters and in the middle of the summer, that's good enough for me to fork over a few dollars.

Be sure to stay halfway through the credits for an extra scene.

Youth present "Shrek" at Winchester Theatre

Each year, a group of talented actors and actresses come together for a few weeks in the summer so that they may perform a musical for friends and family.

This year, the children of the Winchester Cooperative Theatre are performing Shrek the Musical. Based on the four animated movies and a recent, award-winning Broadway musical, Shrek the Musical follows the tale of Shrek, an ugly, misunderstood ogre, as he tries to save the fair princess Fiona from her tower and defeat the evil Lord Farquaad.

Shrek not only is an entertaining show, with unforgettable musical numbers sung and danced by a gifted cast, but also a show with a message that no matter how ugly you are or how much you do not fit in with society, you still must let your "freak flag fly." People of all ages will enjoy Shrek

Being one of the first theatre groups ever to perform Shrek, the dozens of cast members are ecstatic to take part in it. Jared Piantadosi, who plays the lead role of Shrek, cannot wait for opening night. "Being Shrek is so

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Red Klotz coached what ill-fated basketball team from its founding in 1953 until 1995?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Six different UMass Lowell hockey players are furthering their hockey education this summer under the watchful eyes of National Hockey League teams.

Seniors-to-be JOSEPH PENDENZA (WILMINGTON, MASS.)

and Josh Holmstrom (Colorado Springs, Colo.) junior-to-be Scott Wilson (Oakville, Ont.) sophomores-to-be Connor Hellebuyck (Commerce, Mich.) and A. J. White (Dearborn, Mich.) and incoming freshman Evan Campbell (Port Coquitlam, B. C.) have all been invited to NHL Prospect Camps.

"These young men are going to summer prospect camps to gain an understanding of what that organization needs," says UMass Lowell Head Coach Norm Bazin. "And how they can give themselves an opportunity to fill that need in the future."

Two River Hawks, Wilson and White, are attending the Pittsburgh Penguins prospect camp. The Penguins own the NHL rights to Wilson; he was drafted by Pittsburgh on the 7th round of the 2011 NHL Entry Draft. White is a free agent.

Wilson has put together back-to-back years of 16 goals, 22 assists, 38 points. White had two goals and 15 points in his freshman season.

Pendenza, a forward, is attending the Nashville Predators camp. Pendenza tied Wilson for the UMass Lowell scoring title with 38 points. He scored 15 goals, his third consecutive year with double digit goal figures.

Holmstrom is working under the guidance of the New York Islanders. A terrific two-way forward, he is coming off his strongest offensive season with a dozen goals and 25 points.

Winnipeg draftee goaltender Hellebuyck is at the Jets' camp. Hellebuyck turned in eye-popping number as a UMass Lowell freshman. The fifth round selection in the 2012 NHL Entry Draft led the country with 1.37 goals against average and a .952 save percentage.

Campbell has yet to skate on Tsongas Center ice, but the in-coming freshman forward was selected by the Edmonton Oilers in the fifth round of the 2013 NHL Entry Draft and is attending their camp. Campbell had 20 goals and 66 points in 51 games for the Langley Rivermen of the British Columbia Hockey League last winter.

The camps last one week and then the focus returns to preparing for the 2013-14 UMass Lowell season, the first with an 11-team Hockey East.

"We look forward to working with our players this upcoming season," says Bazin, "so they can work towards their ultimate goals of graduating from UMass Lowell and one day playing in the National Hockey League."

Recent graduate, 2013 Captain, Riley Wetmore is also at the New York Islander prospect camp. Wetmore wrapped up his four year collegiate career with 50 goals and 111 points. He tied for the team lead in goals with 16 in his senior year.

At the collegiate season's end, Wetmore began his professional career with the Islanders' AHL affiliate in Bridgeport, Ct. He played three games with the Sound Tigers before the season came to a close scoring his first professional goal.

Soy Sauce Chicken (Beggar'

Fu Guai Gai, or "Beggar's Chicken" gets its name from an ancient legend. According to myth, there was once an old, poor homeless man roaming the streets. One day, he saw a chicken, and because he was so hungry, he caught and killed it. He coated the chicken in mud, built a fire and roasted the chicken. The chicken smelled so good that even the Emperor followed his nose to the source of the delicious aroma wafting through the streets. The emperor saw the homeless man and asked, "What do you call this chicken? How is it made?" The only reply the homeless man would give was, "It's called 'Beggar's Chicken.'"

Jim Bailey, "The Yankee Chef," makes a "Beggar's Chicken" that is almost as easy as the original. Instead of mud, coat the chicken in a marinade of soy sauce, green onions, ginger, sugar and five-spice powder, wrap in aluminum foil and bake for 40 to 45 minutes. The results are as delicious and fragrant as the legend promises.

Ingredients

- 2 ¼ pound whole chicken
- 3 green onions
- 1 cup soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 teaspoon sugar (or to taste)
- 1 teaspoon five-spice powder (or to taste)
- 1 teaspoon ginger (or to taste)

See the video on our website
food.homenewshere.com

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Pour soy sauce into a bowl. Set aside.
2. After cutting off both tips, mince green onions.
3. Add onions, ginger, sugar and five-spice powder to soy sauce. Whisk until spices and sugar have dissolved.
4. Lay 18 inch by 20 inch or cross two pieces of 12 inch wide tin foil on baking sheet.
5. Put chicken in the middle of baking sheet and rub with vegetable oil. Do not rub the bottom.
6. Rub ¼ of the soy sauce mixture on the chicken.
7. Pour the remaining marinade inside the cavity of the chicken.
8. Fold in the pygostyle (known colloquially as the Pope's Nose, Parson's Nose, Sultan's Nose, or, quite frankly, the butt) of the chicken.
9. Wrap chicken in tin foil tightly.
10. Bake at 425F for 40 to 45 minutes. Cook chicken larger than 2 ¼ pounds longer.

Morgan from S-1

he plays. He's the man."

Clearly, Morgan hasn't soured on Ortiz even though the slugger was unable to sign Mike's home run ball. And since Ortiz doesn't seem to be going anywhere any time soon, it looks like Morgan will have plenty of opportunities to meet the Sox legend.

Comley hopes that by getting the message out there that the Red Sox and Morgan can work out another day for him to meet Ortiz and have Mike's home run ball signed.

Comley asked, "Wouldn't it be great public relations for Mr. Henry and the Red Sox once Mr. David Ortiz is informed of all the circumstances in trying to fulfill (Morgan)'s dream for Papi (to do) something like what the Babe did when he visited a young boy in the hospital and offered to hit a home run for the kid and instead Ruth hit two?"

He continued, "Or just maybe to fulfill (Morgan)'s dream, Papi 'The Walk-Off King' will decided to hit a grand slam."

Perhaps a grand slam is asking for more than Ortiz can deliver, but if the Red Sox can win not one but two World Series in a decade, then anything is possible.

Fat-free entertaining tips

Entertaining is a big responsibility. Party hosts welcoming guests into their homes must prepare their homes for guests and plan a meal as well as any entertainment, while those hosting a night out on the town must find a restaurant that's conveniently located and offers a menu that's versatile enough to cater to guests who adhere to various diets.

When hosting at home, catering to guests' dietary needs rests entirely on hosts' shoulders. This may entail preparing vegetarian meals for your guests who do not eat meat or serving low-sodium fare for those with certain medical conditions. Some hosts like to go the extra mile when cooking for their guests, preparing healthy meals even when guests don't make such requests. Trimming fat is a great way to serve a healthy spread to your guests, and there are many ways you can cut fat from some of your favorite foods without sacrificing taste.

* Banish the butter. Sandwiches are popular and convenient options when having a less formal affair, such as those when you're hosting friends for the big game. Though it's common to butter sandwich bread before piling on the deli meats and other fixings, leaving the butter behind is an easy way to trim some fat from your favorite sandwiches without greatly affecting taste. Let guests butter their own sandwiches if they so prefer. The same principle can be applied to mayonnaise, which can add lots of fat to a sandwich. Prepare sandwiches sans mayo, allowing guests to add their own spreads if they want to.

* Cook with skim milk. Many recipes call for a dash or two of milk, and health-conscious hosts can look out for their guests by cooking with skim or even low-fat milk instead of whole milk. Continue the low-fat or fat-free milk theme after dinner when serving coffee. Instead of offering whole milk or heavy cream when serving coffee after dinner, offer low-fat or skim milk instead.

* Physically remove fat from some foods. Perhaps the easiest way to cut fat from foods you will serve to your guests is to actually trim the fat from beef, pork or chicken before cooking. When hosting a backyard barbecue, trim fat from steaks, chops and chicken breasts before putting them on the grill. While some people love the taste of some grizzled fat with their barbecue, such an indulgence is very unhealthy.

* Serve egg whites for breakfast. When hosting friends or family members overnight, avoid starting the day off with fatty fare by serving up egg whites for breakfast. Unlike eggs, egg whites contain no fat and no cholesterol but are still flavorful. And egg whites have become increasingly popular, so chances are your guests already opt for egg whites when making their own breakfasts at home. Another way to trim some fat from the most important meal of the day is to offer low-fat butter and cream cheese when serving bagels, muffins and toast. Low-fat or fat-free spreads tend to be just as flavorful as their less healthy alternatives.

Fruits and veggies can help fight cancer

Cancer affects the lives millions of people across the globe. When detected early, cancer becomes a significantly less formidable foe, as survival rates for cancer patients whose cancer was detected early are much higher than those whose initial diagnosis came after the disease had progressed into its later stages.

But early detection isn't the only way to beat cancer. According to the American Cancer Society, a healthy diet that includes at least 2 1/2 cups of fruits and vegetables each day can help men, women and children lower their cancer risk. Fruits and vegetables that have the most color, such as those that are dark green, red, yellow, and orange, tend to have the most nutrients.

Fruits and vegetables are typically low in calories as well, which helps people maintain healthy weights. That's a significant benefit, as the ACS Cancer Prevention Study II showed significant increases in cancer occurrence in people who are the most overweight.

The link between cancer and obesity is especially strong with specific cancers, including breast cancer after menopause and cancers of the colon, rectum, pancreas, kidneys, esophagus, and endometrium. What's more, studies have shown that obese men and women have a harder time battling cancer upon diagnosis. So while a diet rich in fruits and vegetables can help lower cancer risk, such a diet may even make it easier to battle cancer if diagnosed.

room. These rooms need little artificial light during the day throughout most of the year.

A sunny eating nook with built-in seating nestles into an alcove between the dining room and kitchen. This cozy space invites conversation when shared, but is an equally delightful spot for savoring a cup of something warm, reading a newspaper, or working a crossword puzzle in blissful solitude.

The kitchen is roomy for a small home, and opens into a screened porch, ideal for outdoor dining on warm days.

Access to the screened porch is also possible through double doors in the Tuckahoe's master bedroom. This space boasts two closets, one of them a large walk-in.

On the upper floor, light spills into a wide loft through a parade of windows. Two more bedrooms share a bathroom.

This Week's Sampler: Tuckahoe

Tuckahoe is cozy, charming

The Tuckahoe's fieldstone chimney and wainscoting are at once nostalgic and attractive. Crafted by the forces of nature, no two stones are alike. Nonetheless, together they provide a cohesive visual framework for an updated Craftsman home with all the charm of its predecessors.

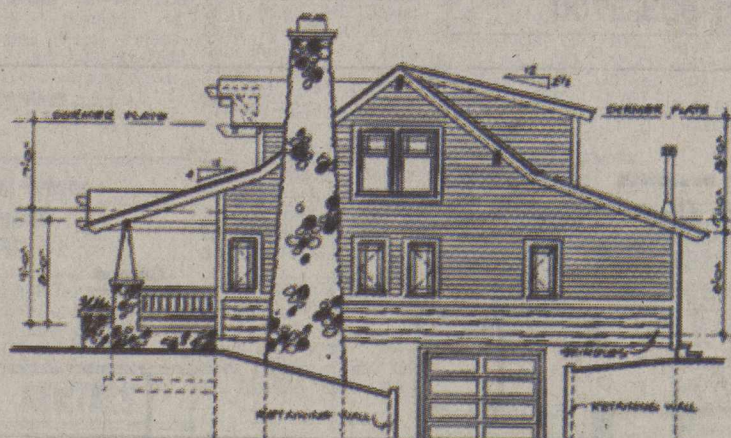

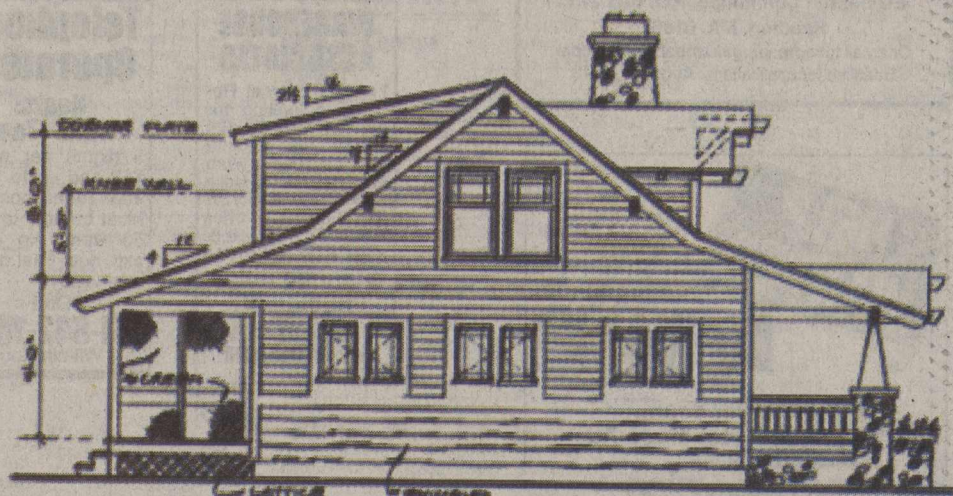

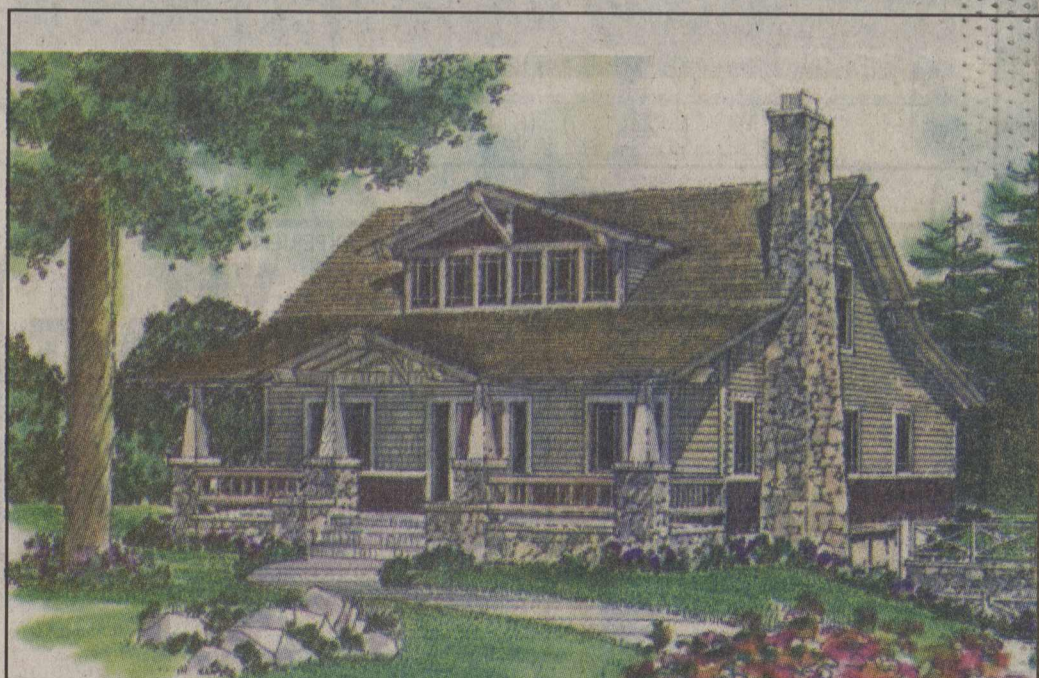

Guest designer Steven Duarte has included a full front porch. It's pleasant to imagine relaxing here on an old-fashioned cushioned porch swing, hung at either end of the porch. The gently sloped gable at center is echoed by a slightly wider gable above.

Inside, soft light washes into the living room, dining room, entry and stairway through slender sidelights and decorative glass in the upper front door panel. The entrance brings you directly into a living room with a fieldstone fireplace flanked by windows.

More windows face the street, and on the other side of the entry their mirror image duo brightens the dining
